DRYS SHY AT PROPOSAL TO 'MODIFY' LAW

Word Creates Alarm Even

Hoover Won't Hesitate Over
"Modification" To Improve Situation

Washington — If anybody thinks President Hoover is going to hesitate over the word "modification" in bringing about a more satisfactory situation with respect to the Volstead act, he is doomed to disappointment.

The Wickesham incident has brought out more clearly than anything else that the mention of the word "modification" creates nervous alarm in the camp of the dries, even though it may carry with it an implication of strengthening the prohibition of intoxicating liquors for sale or distribution.

So much atmosphere has been built up around the word "modification" as meaning an increase in alcoholic content that the dries look uncomfortably on any movement which takes "modification" as its slogan. The letter from George W. Wickesham, chairman of the president's law enforcement commission, would have created no furor if it had not been for the sensitivity of the dries on the question, together with the corresponding emphasis the wets have placed on the weakness of the present structure and the need for some change in existing laws.

What Mr. Wickesham proposed was something which President Hoover would instantly approve if the states were to come forward with a proposal to do their share of law enforcement. Any suggestion which would place on the states the burdens of police work meets with favor here, but it would only be acceptable if all the states adopted the responsibility. It is assured, that in suggesting modification of the Volstead act to permit the states to do the greater share of detection and prosecution of violations, Mr. Wickesham had in mind that the federal courts would be relieved of much of the existing congestion. If, however, the Constantinople — (AP) — Latest reports from northern Anatolia state that recent earthquakes and landslides have caused the deaths of one thousand persons. Ten thousands are homeless and without food. As reports of the disaster continued the Turkish Red Crescent society began rushing aid to the victims while the Constantinople press is appealing for the help of the International Red Cross.

POLICE BOAT SAVES 3 IN PLANE MISHAP

Buffalo, N. Y. — (AP) — Pilot L. N. Little and two mechanics of a giant amphibian plane in the Buffalo-Toronto service, were taken off the plane unhurt by a police boat this morning after the craft grounded in shallow water in Buffalo harbor and half submerged.

The big Sikorsky belonging to Colonial Western Airways, had just landed and was sailing to the landing stage to take on passengers for the Toronto trip.

Another plane was put on in place of the stranded ship, which made the trip with little delay in schedule, the company officials reported. The Sikorsky was not damaged seriously.

Man Wanted In Shooting Yields Self

Former Crandon Saloon-keeper Pleads Not Guilty to Charge

Crandon — (AP) — Sought for a year and ten days in connection with the shooting of Benjamin H. Schaeffer, former saloon-keeper here, yesterday Sheriff of Forest Co. Tom Fannin, former saloon-keeper here, yesterday walked into the office of Dist. Atty. L. L. Bruemmer and surrendered.

He was immediately arraigned on a warrant charging him with shooting with intent to kill, entered a plea of not guilty and was bound over to the next term of circuit court. Meanwhile he was given his liberty under $2,000 bond.

The shooting occurred on July 10, 1928, when Schaeffer walked into Fannin's saloon and accused the latter of selling liquor to girls. Enraged, Fannin fired three shots into the body of the then police chief.

The first bullet imbedded itself in Schaeffer's gun, jamming it.

It was while in a Rhinelander hospital, recovering from the three wounds, that Schaeffer announced his candidacy for sheriff. He also conducted almost his entire campaign from his sickbed. He was elected by a large majority last fall.

Fannin had little to say here beyond the fact that he had been visiting at his former home in Kentucky since the shooting. A reward of $200 for his arrest was posted shortly after the occurrence.

WOMAN DROWNED FLEEING OFFICER

Divorced Wife of Madison Pugilist Plunges into Stream With Auto

Madison — (AP) — Nora Swenson Trainor, 23 divorced wife of a former local pugilist, was drowned in the Yahara river early Sunday morning when the car she was driving, with Officer Pliny Brunzell in pursuit, plunged into the stream.

She had left a party not many blocks away from the scene of the accident about 1 o'clock a. m. for an all-night restaurant with a male companion. When he left her at the door of the eating house, on Madison's east side, she pulled away with the car. When the two did not return to the party other male members started a search and enlisted the aid of the patrolman.

At the end of his four duty at 2:45, he went to police headquarters. Leaving there, Brunzell found the car the searchers had described. Mrs. Trainor drove quickly away when he approached. He followed to the residence where the party was held, and bent the choke on the car so it could not be started quickly, after warning Mrs. Trainor not to leave until he got the owner of the car Carl Garbaski. She straightened the wire, however, and fled with the borrowed car.

The patrolman pursued with his gun until she approached an unguarded point on the river. Her car dived over the bank, overturned as it struck the water and settled on its top. The officer plunged in several times to attempt recovery of the woman, but finally called aid. Harold Jacobson, nearby resident, dived several times before he found Mrs. Trainor's body. Resuscitation efforts were futile.

15 DROWNED WHILE SWIMMING IN DANUBE

Budapest — (AP) — Fifteen persons were drowned in and around Budapest yesterday. Among them were Otto Seelky, heavyweight wrestler. The drowning occurred when half the population sought relief from the excessive heat by swimming in the Danube.

Slaying of Federal Inspector May Lift Order Curbing Agents' Fire

El Paso, Tex. — (AP) — Official recommendation for a larger border patrol and the lifting of regulations prohibiting federal officers from firing at suspected run runners attempting to cross the border at night may result from the slaying Saturday of Ivan E. Scotten, border patrol inspector, by run runners.

Declaring it was almost murder to send inspectors on patrol duty, H. C. Horsley, chief of the border patrol, indicated his reports of the affair to the department of labor would contain such a request.

Scotten, 26, a former Texas athlete, was shot when a band, believed to be run runners, attacked a group of federal officers, from ambush. In a pitched battle that followed one of the attackers was known to have been killed, the officers reported. The remainder of the band escaped and no trace of them has been found.

Scotten was the fourteenth border patrolman killed on duty.

Federal officers estimated that during the time the 11 were slain, 100 or more liquor or alien smugglers have been killed in battles with federal men in or near El Paso. The El Paso sub-district is said to be the most hazardous and dangerous of any along the border.

German Ship Sets Ocean Record

TAKES LESS THAN 5 DAYS TO NEW YORK

New World's Record Also Set for Single Day's Speed on Atlantic

New York — (AP) — The new German liner Bremen reached Ambrose light at the entrance to New York harbor at 8:32 p. m., daylight, this afternoon, easily breaking the speed record for ocean crossings held by the Mauretania.

The Bremen's time from Cribdour on its maiden voyage was four days, 18 hours and 17 minutes, which beat the Mauretania's time by 8 hours and 17 minutes.

Since the voyage of Columbus, which statisticians say would have consumed 69 days had he followed the path of present day liners, the time nor the transatlantic passage has been reduced as man's ingenuity increased. In 1819, the side-wheel steamer Savannah made the voyage from Savannah, Ga., to Liverpool in 26 days. This was reduced to 11 days, 4 hours in 1840 by the steamship Acadia, which set a new record of 9 days, 21 hours in 1841. In 1889, the liner City of Paris established a record of five days, 19 hours, 18 minutes, which remained unchallenged until 1928, when the Mauretania set the present record.

Plans were made for a welcome to the new champion by the city's official reception committee. The municipal tug, Macom, is to carry the committee to Quarantine, where its members will board the vessel. The Macom and a fleet of tugs will then escort the ship to her pier.

PLANE CARRIES MAIL

New York — (AP) — The seaplane New York, carrying a cargo of express mail, landed in the bay at 1:35 p. m., today from the liner Bremen where it had been catapulted from the deck. The plane was piloted by Baron Gohst von Studnitz and headed for Pier 4, Brooklyn.

Baron von Studnitz circled about the pier fully five minutes before descending. Among the first to greet him was Thea Rasche, German flapper, who came with a police motorcycle escort made a speedy run to the Marck postoffice, branch in Manhattan. Postoffice officials promised to have the mail in the hands of consignees within a few hours after its arrival.

23 COOLIES CAUGHT BY TIN MINE DEBRIS

Singapore, Straits Settlement — (AP) — Twenty-three Chinese coolies were entombed today in a tin mine at Papan, in Perak, when half the face of the open cast mine fell in. Efforts to dig the entombed men were fruitless, owing to the volume of debris.

U. S. ENGINEER TO MAKE INSPECTION OF FOX RIVER VALLEY

Oshkosh — (AP) — In an attempt to find some way of preventing floods in the Fox river valley, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is sending Chief Engineer S. H. McCrory to Oshkosh the first week in August for a tour of inspection over the district.

Reports of engineers who made a survey of the upper Wolf valley three years ago will be given by Mr. McCrory to the directors of the Association for Relief of High Water. Two meetings will be held, one at Oshkosh and the other at Shiocton, Wis.

ALAN H. TRIPP, PRESIDENT OF THE ASSOCIATION, OSHKOSH, WILL HAVE CHARGE OF THE INSPECTION TOUR.

Ontario Woman Dies After Bull Gores Her

Belleville, Ont. — (AP) — Mrs. Irvin Reid, 23, farmer's wife in Limerick township, has been killed by a bull. She had gone into a field to milk cows when the bull, recently purchased by her husband, dashed across the field and caught her with his horns, tossing her in the air and goring her when she fell.

Severely injured, she ran to a tree, which she and her little child climbed. A limb snapped, hurling them to the ground. The blow rendered Mrs. Reid unconscious and the child was also injured.

Both were found shortly afterwards when the walls of the child attracted the notice of neighbors. A physician took 72 stitches in Mrs. Reid's body. She died later of hemorrhage.

Hoyt Flight Home Ended By Smogship

Flier Escapes Injury When Plane Is Wrecked in British Columbia

Edmonton, Alberta — (AP) — Captain Ross G. Hoyt's attempted flight from New York to Nome, Alaska, and return has ended in a crash near Var-mount, B. C. He was on his way here from White Horse, Yukon, on the third leg of his homeward trip yesterday.

The United States army flier escaped injury, but his Curtiss Hawk plane was wrecked.

Hoyt had been expected to arrive back at Mitchell Field, N. Y., today if he maintained his pace. He had battled wind and rain since Thursday with practically no sleep and had covered nearly 6,000 miles. He left Mitchell Field at 2:33 p. m. New York time, Thursday.

Bad weather in Alberta forced him down. He lost 12 hours on the northward flight and tried to make up lost time. A message sent from Fairbanks, Alaska, told of a "tough trip" to Nome and return, with rain and low clouds the entire distance.

From Fairbanks Captain Hoyt flew back to White Horse, a distance of 500 miles. He hopped off at 11 o'clock a. m. yesterday, Yukon time, hoping to cover the 1,100 miles to Edmonton and the 7,100 miles to Minneapolis by this morning. From Minneapolis he would have had 1,025 miles more to New York.

MAN FINED $50 FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

William Juse, 627 E. Brewster-st., Arrested After Car Hits Another Auto

William Juse, 627 E. Brewster-st., was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning when he pleaded guilty of drunken driving. The judge also will send a recommendation to the secretary of state asking that Juse's driver's license be revoked for six months.

The Appleton man was arrested about 7:15 Saturday night after the machine he was driving east on Brewster-st. crashed into a machine owned and driven by C. A. Wiese, 727 First-st. Menasha, Wis., who was driving west on Brewster-st., reported to police that the accident occurred when Juse's machine suddenly swerved to the left side of the road and crashed into the Menasha car. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Officer Albert Delgen was called to the scene of the accident and arrested Juse, who was taken to the police station.

LAMONT NAMES SEVEN ON CENSUS COMMITTEE

Washington — (AP) — An executive committee of seven members was appointed today by Secretary Lamont to aid the department of commerce in formulating plans for the census of unemployment to be taken next year.

The committee includes Dr. Joseph H. Willets, of the University of Pennsylvania; Philadelphia; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, Washington; George E. Roberts, vice president of the National City bank, New York.

Secretary Lamont also announced a conference at the commerce department next Thursday to which he has invited a number of manufacturers, economists, and statisticians, to discuss the census of manufacturers which also will be taken next year along with the regular decennial census of population.

LAST MINUTE BULLETINS

Beloit — (AP) — Three men today held up Steve Econopolous in front of his pool hall here and escaped with $1,000 he was bringing from the bank. As Econopolous was about to enter his establishment with the money, which he had withdrawn for the purpose of cashing pay checks of factory workers, the three men accosted him, two of them showing guns in his side while the other reached inside the man's coat and pulled out the money bag.

Bellevue — (AP) — A news agency dispatch from Moscow today said the executive committee of the Communist International, had expelled Nikolai Bukharin, prominent leader and editor of the newspaper Pravda. Six other members of the right wing opposition were said to have been expelled at the same time. The same dispatch announced a resolution urging "communists of all countries to hold a general strike Aug. 1 as a protest against the seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway."

Grand Rapids, Mich. — (AP) — Sheriff Byron J. Patterson this afternoon served with a court order restraining him from interfering with pari-mutuel betting at the grand circuit races here. The order was signed by Circuit Judge Major L. Dunham of Kent-co.

Bridgeport, Conn. — (AP) — The formal complaint in the $500,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. John S. Fogarty of Fort Worth, Texas, now temporarily residing in Connecticut, against James J. "Gene" Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, was filed in superior court today.

CHINESE WILL ABIDE BY PACT, STIMSON TOLD

Secretary Hopeful Peace Will Be Preserved—Attacks Not Confirmed

Washington — (AP) — Secretary Stimson was advised today by Ambassador Chandel of France that he had been informed the Soviet, if possible, would abide by the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war.

Nanking, China — (AP) — Foreign Minister C. T. Wang of the Nationalist government tonight stated that "China will appeal to the league of nations in connection with the Russian crisis if the Soviet violates the spirit of the Kellogg pact."

Nanking — (AP) — The Nationalist foreign office is reported to have sent another note to Soviet Russia reiterating the desire of the Chinese government for settlement of the Chinese Eastern railway dispute by peaceful negotiations.

Washington — (AP) — Chinese Minister Wu, acting on instructions of the Nanking government, informed Secretary Stimson today that China has abided by her obligations under the Kellogg-Briand treaty and would continue to do so.

The minister's statement to the secretary was in reply to Mr. Stimson's action in calling to attention of the Chinese government to its obligations as a signatory power to the anti-war treaty.

Secretary Stimson conferred twice today with French Ambassador Claudel and also with Japanese Ambassador Deluch.

Minister Wu told Stimson the reported "seizure" of the Chinese Eastern railway actually consisted of the dismissal of the Russian employees.

He also said he was hopeful that an amicable means of settlement of the dispute would be found.

STIMSON OPTIMISTIC

Absence of any official confirmation of overt acts by either China or the Soviet in Manchuria caused Secretary Stimson to express optimism today over the situation.

He said the American diplomatic representatives in China had cautioned the department regarding the

WHEAT PRICES AGAIN MAKE UPWARD BURST

Chicago — (AP) — Wheat prices burst upward today to an extreme advance of 8 cents a bushel as the weekend passed without a rain ending the northwest drought. The close here was 7 to 7 1/2, higher than Saturday's finish, with July wheat selling at $1.4, September at 1.4 1/2 to 1 1/2 and December at 1.52 1/2 to 1 1/2.

6 People Hurt In Weekend Automobile Accidents

TWO CARS ARE RUINED; ONE STRIKES POLE

None of Motorists Are Believed Seriously Injured, However

Although two automobiles were demolished and several other machines were badly damaged in weekend accidents in Appleton and vicinity, none of the occupants of the cars were seriously injured.

The list of injured follows: Charles Price, 21, 2570 Seventeenth-ave. West Allis, injured back. John E. Erickson, Appleton, cuts and bruises about the head and face. Ed Samps, 30, same address, cuts and bruises about the head and face. Albert Wilts, 21, Chicago, scalp wounds, cuts and bruises about the head and face.

Arthur Hawley, 24, Chicago, scalp wounds, cuts and bruises about the head and face.

William Pasch, 38, 621 N. Union-st., cuts and bruises on the right side of the face, right arm and hand. Four men were injured when the car driven by Erickson, who lives at the corner of Bennett-st and Barnes-ave, crashed into a telephone pole at the curve on Highway 41 near the junction with the French-rd just beyond the north city limits about 145 Sunday morning.

Erickson, accompanied by Samps, Wilts and Hawley, failed to make the curve.

CAR IS DEMOLISHED
The car was a total wreck and the men were cut and bruised by the wreckage. They were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Henry Scholts, Y.M.C.A., who witnessed the crash.

Price was injured when the car in which he was riding was forced into the ditch on the Lake-rd about two miles from Appleton Sunday afternoon.

The West Allis young man was riding with Edward Becker, Jr., also of West Allis, and two Appleton young women, Miss Margaret Schmidt and Miss Mary Funck, 814 W. Packard-st. The four young people were driving east when a car driven by August Radtke, New London, attempted to pass them. Radtke was forced to turn sharply to get into line ahead of Becker's machine and his bumper caught a front wheel of Becker's machine and threw it into the ditch, according to the police report.

Price was taken to an Appleton doctors office by Sergeant John Duval and Officer Gus Harskorn in the police car. The officers were called by spectators.

Pasch was injured when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a machine driven by Clarence Schroeder, route 1, Greenville, at the corner of Franklin and Oneida-sts at 9:30 Saturday evening.

The Greenville man was driving north on Oneida-st and turned to go west on Franklin-st when he struck the wheel which was going east on Franklin-st.

MOVE TO HALT BOOZE SMUGGLING IN PLANES
Detroit—(AP)—The Detroit News today says that customs officials are making an investigation of reports of liquor smuggling activities by airplanes taking off from fields in the vicinity of LaSalle, Ont., for Michigan destinations.

The newspaper says Canadian authorities will seize planes and arrest pilots engaged in the liquor traffic. There is no provisions in the provincial control act governing the shipment of liquor by airplane, the newspaper points out. Other carriers under Canadian and United States laws declare the contents of their cargoes and their destinations when clearing for points across the border.

Liquor smuggling by airplane has been suspected for several months. Saturday an airplane piloted by Howard Golyard, 22, of Detroit, was captured by state troopers just after it landed in a field near New Boston with 14 cases of whiskey.

Golyard refused to say where he had picked up his cargo.

SWIMMING SUIT THEFTS CAUSE ARREST OF FOUR
Four Appleton boys, 15 and 16 years old, were arrested at Waverly beach Friday by Sheriff John Diedrich and Undersheriff Charles Groeschel of Calumet-co on charges of stealing four bathing suits, valued at $25 each. Complaints were made by Howard Campbell, manager of the beach park. The four boys were taken to Chilton and arraigned Saturday morning before County Judge H. F. Arpa, who severely reprimanded them and then suspended sentence.

LEROY SCOTT DROWNS IN NEW YORK LAKE
Plattsburgh, N. Y.—(AP)—Leroy Scott, author, was drowned while swimming yesterday in Chateaugay lake, 25 miles from here, state troopers disclosed. A canoeist said she saw him go down while trying to swim across the lake. The body has not been recovered.

Leroy Scott was the author of the novel "No. 13 Washington Square."

GARRISON TO SPEAK AT ROTARY MEETING
The Rev. R. A. Garrison, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church, will speak at the meeting of Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. His subject will be "What We Can Do To Make Better Citizens." The directors of Rotary will meet at Hotel Northern at 8:30 Monday evening, and the council at 9:30.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, IT'S TRUE UNLESS SOMEONE HITS PIPE!

Springfield, Ohio—(AP)—An open safety pin and a piece of sponge cloth, eight inches wide and a yard long, was removed from the esophagus of Mrs. Mary Blais, 30, of Springfield, by Doctors W. C. Cheek and Jay Sissy here yesterday. Relatives of the woman were unable to explain how Mrs. Blais happened to swallow the pin and cloth Saturday night. The pin's point was lodged in the wall of the tube with the cloth wedged down on top of it.

SIX KILLED WHEN THREE PLANES FALL

Numerous Other Deaths Caused by Other Accidents Over Weekend

BULLETIN
Groton, S. D.—(AP)—Alfred Ablen and Henry Larsen of Groton, were killed when an airplane went into a tail spin and was wrecked near here late Sunday afternoon.

Ablen a licensed pilot, was carrying passengers on short flights. Witnesses said the plane righted itself momentarily from the tailspin at an altitude of about 300 feet and then fell.

Chicago—(AP)—Four persons were killed yesterday in two airplane crashes in the midwest, one here and another at North Platte, Neb.

Jens Jensen, 28 and Miss Hilda Schaufelberg, 21 of Gleason, Wis., were killed, and Miss Pauline Taylor, 28, was critically injured when Jensen's plane fell. The engine stalled and the plane went into a tailspin, landing near the Akers airport, west of Chicago.

County police said they learned the women had given Jensen, who was not licensed as a commercial pilot, $5 to take them aloft.

"Frozen" controls were believed to have caused the North Platte accident.

Henry Oldham, pilot for the Midwest Aviation corporation, was instructing Mike Ryan in flying. They had been in the air nearly an hour and were about to land when the crash occurred near the North Platte Municipal airport. Both Ryan and Oldham were killed. They lived at North Platte.

Two other deaths in the crash of a plane at Worcester Mass., brought the nation's aviation deaths over the weekend to six.

8 ARE DROWNED
Eight persons were drowned at midwestern bathing beaches and fishing resorts, and one death from drowning was reported at Plattsburgh, N. Y., where the author, Leroy Scott, sank while swimming. Two men and a girl were drowned in Lake Michigan here, where an estimated throng of 110,000 swarmed to the beaches. Three were drowned at Decatur, Ill., one at Centralia and one at Madison, Wis.

Automobile accidents brought death to two Chicanos and two at Milwaukee, and seven were killed at Eaton, Ohio when a train struck an automobile. The run-away and explosion of "Old Peppersass," the ancient locomotive that was rededicated Saturday at Mt. Washington, N. H., took the life of a newspaperman, and at Milwaukee a train killed a man walking on the right of way.

One man was killed by a street car in Chicago.

200 QUIT CALIFORNIA TO KEEP MEXICAN JOBS
Calxico, Calif.—(AP)—This border town awoke today to find its population decreased, temporarily at least, by approximately 200 persons.

Across the border in Lower California the village of Mexicali greeted the day with the knowledge that it had gained a similar number by the overnight exodus from Calxico, the result of an order by the Mexican government requiring that foreigners working in the country must take residence there.

A mass meeting to protest against the ruling, which went into effect yesterday, was scheduled for today by Calxico business men. Previous protest sent to Gov. Abelardo Rodriguez of the northern district of Lower California brought the formal statement that he thought the order would be modified before it went into effect.

No modification had been made early today, and immigration officials enforced the mandate by refusing entrance to Americans employed on the Mexican side. Rooming accommodations were at a premium in Mexicali last night.

The government announced that the edict had been issued at the request of the Mexican Department of Labor in an effort to alleviate the labor situation.

MILWAUKEEAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY TRAIN
Racine—(AP)—Run down by a Milwaukee electric train while crossing its tracks yesterday, Frank Ransak, 53, Milwaukee, was killed near Waterford yesterday. He was returning from a fishing trip.

CONDITION UNCHANGED
Milwaukee—(AP)—The condition of Victor L. Berger, former Socialist congressman, who is suffering from a skull fracture and other injuries sustained when he was struck by a street car last Monday, today remained unchanged.

CRAZED MAN KILLS CELL-MATE IN JAIL

"He Got Tough and I Pushed Him Over" Prisoner Tells Madison Police

Madison—(AP)—Godfrey Kugle, 60, Minneapolis, was killed by his cell-mate Ralph Everhart in the Madison police station early Sunday morning.

The victim's head was badly battered when the body was found, stripped of clothing, the hands tied together with a blanket strip, and another strip twisted loosely about the neck of the corpse.

Police said Everhart, an itinerant, was insane. When asked why he had slain Kugle, Everhart replied,

"He got tough and I pushed him over."

Everhart was arrested early Saturday evening when a car owner suspected him of planning to steal an automobile. Before police arrived, he had abandoned his attempt on the machine, and started ringing door bells. At 10:30 P. M. Kugle was arrested on a drunkenness charge, and placed in a cell with Everhart.

At 2:20 A. M., Sunday, ix students were brought in on charges of disorderliness. As they were being locked up, Kugle's body was discovered.

Everhart made repeated senseless statements to questions asked him by the coroner and police.

DIES AT ROCHESTER
Racine—(AP)—G. A. Resche, 49, for 15 years alderman from the Ninth ward, and several times president of the city council, died at Rochester, Minn., yesterday after an operation several days ago. The body will be brought here for burial.

Farm Federation Officer Hits Sugar Sliding Duty

Washington—(AP)—Characterizing the proposed sliding scale tariff for sugar as an iniquitous device, Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, in a letter made public today, to Sam H. Thompson, the federation president and to the state, farm bureaus, declared that "no risky experiments should be tried out on agricultural products."

"If we must experiment with a sliding scale proposition," his letter said, it should be tried out on "some profitable industrial commodity like steel, aluminum, rayon or jewelry."

He said "it would be interesting to see the fate of any member of congress who would dare advocate a sliding scale for any industrial commodity."

The sliding scale would mean virtually "price fixing" on the part of the federal government, Gray's communication declared. "It is equivalent to telling the American farmer, who produces sugar, that his refined product shall never go beyond $6 a hundred pounds."

He asserted that the tariff rate would decrease under the sliding scale when the price of refined sugar exceeds $6 a hundred.

If the price should exceed $6, he added the tariff bars "are left down to such an extreme extent that foreign sugars are invited to flood our markets."

He advocated the ad valorem system for the tariff protection of agriculture, declaring that "the drift in industry is away from the sliding scale rather than towards it."

ALLEN-A COMPANY AND KNITTER FACING SUIT

Kenosha—(AP)—Suit for $20,000 damages was filed here today by the G. N. Sharp Printing company against the Allen-A company and James Biscarel, a knitter employed by the Allen-A company. The suit alleges conspiracy to ruin the business of the plaintiff.

The Sharp company prints the Hosiery Worker, official publication of the striking Allen-A employees. The printing plant has been stoned a number of times and windows broken.

Biscarel recently was fined $100 and costs for participating in a window breaking attack on buildings here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ratzman of Milwaukee spent the weekend with Mrs. Mildred Schneider, who has been ill at her home.

KOHLER NOW CHIEF AMONG WINNEBAGOES

Pittsville—(AP)—Climaxing a three-day powwow the old blind chief, Moregar of the Winnebago Indians, yesterday presided over ceremonies at which Gov. Walter J. Kohler, who became chief Wab-Nolg-Chu-Ja-Ga, was formally admitted to membership in the tribe.

Three hundred Indians attended the ceremony, which was witnessed by 5,000 persons.

The governor's Indian name means "Red Bird," chosen mainly because he flew by airplane to Pittsville.

After the formal adoption, gifts were exchanged between Gov. and Mrs. Kohler and the tribal chief and his squaw.

MEMPHIS SPEED BOAT AHEAD OF RIVAL IN MISSISSIPPI RACE

Has Big Lead Over Express
Cruiser Yacht on Way to St. Louis

Natchez, Miss. (P)—The speed boat Bogie, piloted by Dr. Louis Ledoy of Memphis, reached Natchez at 6 o'clock a. m. today, and left at 7:10 in its race to St. Louis with the express cruiser yacht, the Martha Jane, owned by George M. Cox of New Orleans, which had not reached here at 9 o'clock.

New York (P)—Fifty miles ahead of the rival, the Martha Jane, Dr. Louis Ledoy of Memphis, in his speed little speed boat, the Bogie, was ripping up the Mississippi river today in a boat race seeking to smash the steamboat record of 30 hours and 30 minutes from New Orleans to St. Louis, set by the famous old Robert E. Lee in 1870.

The Bogie, a 26-foot open motor boat, with three men aboard, and the Martha Jane, a 55-foot express yacht, commanded by George M. Cox, of New Orleans, owner, and seven companions, cast off from Canal Street Sunday afternoon at 3:04:30 central time amid a din of harbor shrieks for the 1,200 mile race.

The Bogie soon jumped into a commanding lead. The first sighting at Donaldsonville, La., at 7 p. m. gave the Bogie a lead of 15 miles. The race is for a 5-cent bet.

The first stop, at Baton Rouge, at 10:05 p. m. retelling of the Bogie found the boat gaining rapidly. It was given an estimated 50 mile advantage over the palatial yacht.

At Plaquemine, La., 20 miles below Baton Rouge, the New Orleans boat was holding to a speed of 20 miles an hour when the craft trailed the Bogie to reach that point at 11:45.

The record the Bogie is trying to beat was set by the world famous speed boat Robert E. Lee when it steamboat beat the Natchez to St. Louis by about six hours, arriving on the Fourth of July, 1870.

With Dr. Ledoy as Bob Hunter and Harvey Brown of Memphis.

The Martha Jane carries in addition to Mr. Cox, Neal M. Helm, Carl Rothens, George, Ed Higgins, J. D. Klempner, D. B. B. Feed and Fred Coburn, all of New Orleans.

3 DIE IN MILWAUKEE WEEKEND ACCIDENTS

Milwaukee (P)—Three men were killed in accidents over the weekend. Richard Hoe, 84, grand secretary of the Wisconsin Odd Fellows' Home at Green Bay, was killed Sunday evening when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a tree.

John Schenck, 43, an inmate of the hospital for mental diseases at Watonsau, from which he escaped on June 18, was killed by a train.

Steve Morley, 39, also of Milwaukee, was killed in an auto crash.

NEGRO'S VICTIM IN SERIOUS CONDITION

With the development of an infection in his jaw over the weekend, the condition of John Kasten, struck by a Negro last Wednesday night, has taken on a more serious aspect. His physician terms his condition critical, but is hopeful that the infection can be checked. Kasten was knocked down on Douglas st. as he was returning from the 101 ranch and Wild West show with his daughter, who also was attacked by the assailant. A Negro just discharged from the show is held charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm and assault with intent to rape. He denies his guilt.

MARIE ASTAIRE AND HUSBAND SEPARATE

Hollywood (P)—Marie Astaire, screen actress returning from New York after an absence of a year from Hollywood, announced that she and her husband, Walter Kane, stage actor, have separated.

"We separated two months ago, but friends," she said, "I am a wonderful character but need few more rehearsals as a husband."

Miss Astaire said no divorce proceedings were contemplated for the present at least. They were married since Miss Astaire's departure from Hollywood 12 months ago.

RACINE EXPRESSMAN IS HELD UP BY BANDIT TRIO

Racine (P)—Three armed men held up and robbed Dan Braddock, expressman, of $23 last night and escaped.

Hand Improving.
The condition of Melvin Manier, 1408 N. Harrison st. who crashed and lacerated his right hand last Tuesday at the Appleton Canned Paper Co. is somewhat improved although the danger of infection setting in is not yet over. Sixteen stitches were taken in the hand's right hand. He is at the St. Elizabeth hospital.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
Light scattered showers occurred in the upper Mississippi valley during the past 24 hours due to low pressure over the upper lakes. The weather remains cloudy and unsettled in the lake region this morning but elsewhere fair weather prevails.

Temperatures are rising in the lake region and most section east of the Mississippi River, but it is a little cooler in the northwest due to high pressure area which is moving over North Dakota.

Thunder showers are expected in this section this afternoon or tonight, followed by fair and cooler Sunday.

Briand Pushes His Idea Of Europe United States

Paris (P)—Organization of Europe as a regional, continental entity under the aegis of the league of nations and attempted solution as such of both political and economic problems, is understood to be the project of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France.

At the league of nations assembly in September Mr. Briand proposes to explain the board outlines of his plan, which, however, does not embrace the ambitious idea of forming a new political institution with a parliament and a president.

His much-discussed idea of a "United States of Europe" will partake more of the nature of a political enterprise with European states meeting at regular period to study current questions of pressing interest.

Numerous other statesmen, like Benes of Czechoslovakia, want to build up a prosperous Europe, far from being directed against the United States, its role is conceived as benefiting America because it would open up bigger markets for American goods.

The United States is thought to be mighty in the economic sense because, for one reason, no embargo exists between the United States and the states, whereas economic advance in Europe is often greatly retarded by conflicting and vexatious tariff regulations.

The league has already tackled this problem but more must be done before Europe reaches economic unity. Mr. Briand is naturally keen on the peace benefits to be derived from frequent consultation among European nations. He wishes to crown his idea of renunciation of war with peace efforts at Locarno and Geneva by constructing an organization within the framework of the league which will still further reduce the possibilities of war in Europe.

Belief that the men who robbed the First National bank of Chicago on July 12, belong to a Chicago gang that has been summering in the northern part of the state is expressed by A. M. DeVoursney, manager of the protective department of the Wisconsin Bankers' association.

Mr. DeVoursney, who is investigating the robbery, gives his information in a bulletin issued to sheriffs and police chiefs throughout the state.

The reason advanced for the belief that the men were staying at some resort north of Dale is that they were seen several times prior to the robbery.

A suitable reward is to be offered for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

APPLETON MEN ATTEND RABBIT BREEDERS' MEET

Organization of a Wisconsin Rabbit Improvement association which will work with the state department of markets in breeding and grading rabbits, was one of the accomplishments of state rabbit breeders at their meeting Friday and Saturday at Rhinelander. Among the Appleton men attending the meeting were Henry Boldt, Rudolph Pfund, A. J. Parrish, Frank Sager and Paul V. Cary, Jr. The latter two represented the Midwest Publishing company publishers of the breeders' official paper.

2 DIE IN BAY STATE AIRPLANE ACCIDENT

Worcester, Mass. (P)—A long leaved maple tree, placed in the wing fabric to tear loose, sent an airplane piloted by George J. Haven 31, careening to ground, 2,500 feet below late yesterday and brought death to Haven and his passenger, Charles W. Holmes, 44, commercial photographer. The accident occurred at the Worcester airport, North Grafton. Both Haven and Holmes were Worcester men and both were married.

STATE PHOTOGRAPHERS ASKED TO MEET HERE

The Photographers Association of Wisconsin has been asked by Appleton Chamber of Commerce to hold its annual convention in 1930 in Appleton. A letter extending the invitation was sent J. L. Mitzbauer, secretary, Milwaukee, last week by the chamber of commerce. The 1929 convention will be held at Madison.

COMPLETE PLANS THIS WEEK FOR BOYS' CAMP

Final arrangements for the Y. M. C. A. camp at Onaway Island, Waupaca, will be made this week, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary at the Y. M. C. A. The remainder of the leaders will be picked and the camp program will be arranged. Mr. Bailey will make a final campaign this week to fill the camp quota.

ASKS RIGHT TO START STILL AT WOOD CAMP

Sopherton (P)—"I'd like to get permission to start a still in your camp and supply the boys right on the grounds," was the frank request of a young man made to Woods Superintendent John Rogers at a lumber camp near here yesterday. Permission was refused. Many moonshiners have been trying to start business close to lumber camps within the last few weeks.

CHARGE MAN DIDN'T STOP FOR ARTERIAL

Henry A. Siebers, 217 W. Eighth st., Kaukauna, was arrested Sunday by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer, on a charge of failing to stop for an arterial highway at the corner of Wisconsin and Richmond st. He is to appear in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg to answer charges Monday afternoon.

CORPORATION GROUP VOTES TO DISSOLVE

The Rainbow Gardens corporation has been dissolved, according to papers filed Monday with A. G. Koch, register of deeds. The movement to dissolve the corporation was taken at a meeting of stockholders only July 18. All of the 121 shares voted in favor of dissolution. The papers were signed by G. G. Horst, president, and Stanley A. Staidl, secretary.

Service Stores Meet
Members of the service store organization will meet at the Kluge grocery, 614 E. Hancock st., Monday evening. The meeting will begin at 7:30.

MAIL CARRIERS BEAT CLERKS IN BASEBALL GAME

All was quiet at the Appleton post office Monday morning. The reason was that the base ball supremacy question had been settled in favor of the city carriers nine which Sunday afternoon defeated a team composed of clerks, rural carriers and special delivery messengers, 15 to 13.

The baseball game was the feature of the annual postal employees picnic at Pierce park. More than 200 postal workers and their families attended the annual event.

"It wasn't my fault that we didn't win," said John Freude, a rural mail carrier, who acted as official score keeper. John refused to admit that he had favored his own team.

"We would have won if the game had lasted another inning," was the explanation offered by Al Scroth, who piloted the losing nine and also acted as catcher. Despite the valuable work of Harry Krueger, who pitched for the losers and starred at the plate with a home run and triple, the clerks went down to defeat under the slugging of Ed Campshire and George Weintrauer, who hit everything and then some.

George Grimmer and Harry Junge were the batteries for the winners.

YOUTH HIT BY TRUCK NOT SERIOUSLY HURT

Struck by a street department truck driven by Richard Ellenbecker shortly after noon Monday at the corner W. College ave. and Walnut st., William Ashauer, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ashauer, 620 S. State st., escaped with slight bruises about his legs. The truck headed south on Walnut st. had stopped for the arterial sign, police reported. As the truck started forward, the youth, who was riding a tricycle east on the avenue along the sidewalk, ran in front of the truck and was knocked to the pavement. The driver immediately stopped his machine. The youth was taken to a physician's office nearby, and later to his home.

SUE CAROL ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT TO MARRY

Hollywood (P)—Sue Carol, motion picture actress, has announced her engagement, long rumored in Hollywood, to Nick Stuart, film star.

"We at last are ready to admit our engagement," Miss Carol said. "We have made no plans as yet for the wedding and it will be several months before it takes place."

SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Herman Wolfgang, 137 S. River st., who suffered a compound fracture and painful lacerations of the arm in an accident at Kimberly Clark paper mill, Kimberly, Saturday, is much improved and it is thought that amputation will not be necessary. He is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital.

DEATHS

MRS. RANDINE NELSON, 81, Waupaca, died at 8:30 Monday morning of heart disease at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Danielson, Ogdensburg. She was born in Norway and was married to Simon Hanson, who died ten years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Danielson, Ogdensburg, Mrs. Gregor Anderson, Mosinee, Mrs. Gus Rasmussen, Waupaca; and five sons, Carl Hanson, Twin Valley, Minn.; R. Hanson, Scandinavia, Adolph Hanson, Keesburg, Oscar Hanson and Undersheriff James O. Hanson, Waupaca.

CONFESSION CLEARS INNOCENT MAN AFTER 8 MONTHS IN PRISON

Indianapolis, Ind. (P)—Confession of Gilbert Ammerman, 29, local taxi driver, that he participated in the $4,000 holdup Aug. 20, 1928, of the Exchange State bank at Golden, Ill., has exonerated Everett Howell of Quincy, Ill., who has served eight months in the Illinois state penitentiary on conviction of a part in the robbery.

"Identified" by the bank president as one of the bandits, Howell was sentenced to one year to life. John Barnhill, 35, of Peoria, Ill., arrested with him, and also convicted and sentenced, has been at liberty on an appeal bond.

In a search for the third member of the gang, police last Thursday arrested Peter McDonald, 19, of Chicago. He was said to have confessed to the hold-up but declared he had never seen Howell. On McDonald's information, police arrested Ammerman here Saturday night. His confession followed continued questioning and he was returned to Illinois.

CLOSE CONTEST TO NAME 2 GOATS IN ALICIA PARK ZOO

The contest is closed, the judges chosen, and within 24 hours the two goats at Alicia park zoo will cease to be called "she" and "it." They're going to have real "died-in-the-wool" names when it's "Bill and Miss," "Butt and Jeff," "Butter and Cheese," "Powder and Puff" or any of the dozen other cognomens submitted by the children of Outagamie co.

Much forethought and discrimination was used in the selection of representative judges to decide this weighty matter. Elmer Honkamp, deputy collector of internal revenue, representing the United States, will see that Uncle Sam has his finger in the naming of the Alicia park goats; Miss Marie Karshom, city nurse, will place her vote in the name of womankind; and Attorney Hugo Keller will drop his ballot in the capacity of a member of the Appleton Flower and Garden society. Feeling that the goats lend an artistic touch to the park, Carl Becker, city clerk, felt that the Appleton society whose purpose it is to beautify the city should be given a chance to help baptize the animals.

The contest is closed, the judges chosen, and within 24 hours the two goats at Alicia park zoo will cease to be called "she" and "it." They're going to have real "died-in-the-wool" names when it's "Bill and Miss," "Butt and Jeff," "Butter and Cheese," "Powder and Puff" or any of the dozen other cognomens submitted by the children of Outagamie co.

200 ATTEND 25TH MEET OF RURAL LETTER MEN

Racine (P)—Two hundred delegates and visitors to the 25th annual convention of the Wisconsin Rural Letter Carriers' association, here were told at the opening session today that their is one of the greatest services given rural communities.

The rural carriers removed the loneliness and isolation of the man living in an outlying district. Congressman Henry Allen Cooper said in an address. He helps keep the farmer in touch with the rest of the world. His job is dignified and honorable.

After a short organization meeting, the delegates left by automobile for Kenosha to visit the automobile plant. Tonight, they will be guests at a theatre party in Kenosha.

The attendance at the convention is expected to be increased to nearly 500 tomorrow. H. V. Turner, president, Black River Falls, announced. Of the 1,700 rural carriers in Wisconsin, 1,550 are affiliated with the association.

VAGABOND IS WINNER OF SAILING CONTEST

Milwaukee (P)—The Journal, in a special dispatch from Mackinac, said today that the Vagabond, commanded by Capt. Ed Purcell, apparently won the 26th renewal of the Chicago to Mackinac sailing race which ended shortly before noon today.

The Dorella, another Milwaukee boat, finished first, but lost the race because she is a scratch boat and yielded a time allowance to the Vagabond and the Joyant, Chicago craft, which finished second. The Joyant gives a 30-minute allowance to the Vagabond.

Capt. Purcell claimed the race, although official tabulations have not been made, being delayed until all of the 21 boats entered cross the finish line.

ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY IN CRASH

Car Driven by Appleton Man
Rolls Over Three Times
After Collision

Green Bay (P)—Thomas Hempton, 420 N. Union st., Appleton, escaped serious injury about 10:30 Sunday night when a coupe he was driving collided with another car parked on the road. Hempton's car went into the ditch and turned over three times before coming to a stop. Hempton was bruised and his car almost demolished. The accident occurred on highway 141 near here.

The car with which Hempton collided was driven by Lloyd Lambess, 1304 S. Broadway, DePere. Hempton who is a salesman for the Fairbanks-Morse company and was on his way to Appleton, claimed the car with which he collided was parked on the highway when the accident occurred.

NATIONAL GUARD OUT IN ALABAMA KILLING

Birmingham, Ala. (P)—Companies I and L, of the 16th Infantry, Alabama National guard, were being mobilized at the army here to go to Montgomery and accompany Lester Bouryer, Negro slayer, to Clayton, where a grand jury is to investigate his case today.

A mobilization order was issued by Gov. Bibb Graves at Montgomery last night at the request of Barbour (Eufaula) authorities who declared the presence of guardsmen would be necessary to preserve order when the Negro arrived from Kilby prison at Montgomery.

A telephone report from Eufaula, near where the crime occurred, said feeling was at a high pitch against the Negro, especially in the cotton mill districts, although no disorders have been reported.

Bouryer is charged with the slaying of Jack Hines, mechanic, and an assault upon Miss Beatrice Clark, his 18-year old companion, on an automobile ride three weeks ago. State officers said he confessed shortly after his arrest near Spigners.

The Barbour county grand jury convenes today at Clayton, the county seat, to investigate the case. If an indictment is returned, it is planned to try Bouryer Friday.

CUBA ASKS FARMERS TO RAISE MORE FOOD

Havana (P)—An island nation whose crop agriculture leaves its people dependent upon foreign production for food, is not in the best of economic positions, thinks the Cuban government. Therefore it is urging its rural folk to raise more cattle, poultry, vegetables and grains and less sugar cane.

The extent to which Cuba depends upon the world at large for her food was shown by two recent reports issued by the federal treasury department. One revealed that Cuba spent $218,330 last year in the United States for potatoes alone, this figure comparing with $1,866 for the same commodity in 1912.

The other report, assembled by the statistical division of the government, said that in three years Cuba imported $20,765,309 worth of coffee, $12,221,828 of corn, $11,532,824 of beans, $17,795,393 of fruit and salad meats, $51,737,568 of lard and $12,267,115 of eggs. The major portion of these imports came from the United States, but Mexico, Brazil and Argentina also figured largely in the trade.

BUILDING PERMITS

A permit to build a residence and garage at 220 W. Commercial st. cost $5,500.00, was granted Grover Schmidt by the building inspector Monday. Emery Endter, 129 N. Richmond st., received a permit to build a garage at 1801 N. Division st., cost $350.

Dresden (P)—Violators of railway rules, such as that against crossing the tracks, have become so numerous that the divisional management of the roads has had special receipts printed for two marks, or fifty cents. The management finds that trespassers prefer to pay that amount rather than be held into court, as the law provides.

There is much speculation as to the party's choice as presidential candidate. A short time ago it appeared that Aaron Saez, governor of the state of Nuevo Leon, had the support of the majority of the party that will make up the party.

Railroads Lock Horns Over Right To Timber

Seattle, Wash. (P)—Nature's quiet reign of many centuries over vast forests of the Olympic peninsula in western Washington will be broken soon by a battle of commercial interests for timber valued at more than $100,000,000.

Three transcontinental railroads and several large lumber companies have become involved in the fight. First plans for developing the peninsula were announced by the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads. These lines have started surveys for a proposed joint railroad extending nearly 60 miles north into the district from Grays harbor.

Logging railroads followed by declaring their intention of building south from Port Angeles on the northern tip of the peninsula. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad has extensive interests in the district and lumbermen expect the road to extend its line from the north.

Behind the railroad plans lies a struggle between big lumber companies. Puget sound interests say the Olympic timber is necessary for hemlock, Sitka spruce and western red cedar, all forest giants.

SCHMIEGE GETS PEN WHICH KOHLER USED TO SIGN TAX BILL

The fountain pen with which Governor Kohler, signed the reciprocity inheritance tax bill, recently passed by the state legislature, was presented last week by the governor to Assemblyman Oscar J. Schmiege, Appleton, author of the bill. This was the first bill to evoke a fight in the legislature. The bill provides that Wisconsin will not tax estates of people residing in states who do not tax estates of Wisconsin people in those states.

CAMERAMAN KILLED IN RAIL TRAGEDY

"Old Peppersass" Makes Trip Up Mountain but Is Destroyed Enroute Down

Mount Washington, N. H. (P)—Stories of hardship and gloom were recounted today as several hundred persons, including governors of seven states, who assembled here Saturday to witness the final run of "Old Peppersass" up the mountain, scattered to their homes, sobered by the tragedy which claimed the life of a photographer and brought destruction to the celebrated locomotive.

Daniel P. Rosseter, Arlington, Mass., who was hurled off the engine as it sped down the steep cog railway after a triumphant trip to the summit, was killed. The injured included Edward C. Frost, who was at the throttle when "Old Peppersass" first climbed the mountain back in 1869 and who was operating it for the last time, his 15-year old son, Caleb, Wiston H. Pote, Swampscott, Mass., photographer, and W. I. Newsham, Concord, fireman.

They all leaped from the locomotive as it careened dizzily down the steep trestle known as Jacob's Ladder after something had gone wrong. The locomotive toppled from the rails and into the ravine where it was blown into bits when the boiler exploded.

Many of those who had assembled as guests to the state of New Hampshire and the Boston and Maine railroad to see "Old Peppersass" re-dedicated and makes its final run after having served as a museum piece since 1893, were maced for hours in the bitter cold on the peak. They were forced to stay on the mountain.

MEXICO WILL TRY TO CONSOLIDATE ITS REVOLUTION

Attempt Will Be Crystallized at Convention of Revolutionary Party

Mexico City (P)—Efforts to weld Mexico's so called "revolutionary elements" into one strong group will be brought to a head in March when the national revolutionary party holds its convention at Queretaro.

The party, now in the organization stage, is an attempted merger of many small political clubs and associations spread throughout the country and whose platforms agree in that the program of the revolution, formulated in 1910 when the Diaz dictatorship was overthrown, should be carried out. Some of the organizations disagree in their interpretation of the program, but the organization of the party hope to bring about an understanding and formulation of one general platform with nomination of a common presidential candidate to run in the elections next November.

If the convention proves successful perhaps the strongest political party ever built up in Mexico will come into being. Heretofore most of the revolutionary groups have been acting independently.

Formation of the big party is an idea that had its inception in a speech made by the then president General Calles before congress last September. Calles offered to take charge of the organization work and immediately after completing his term as chief executive he became head of the organizing committee. In view of last political events, however, he resigned from this post and has retired to private life.

There is much speculation as to the party's choice as presidential candidate. A short time ago it appeared that Aaron Saez, governor of the state of Nuevo Leon, had the support of the majority of the party that will make up the party.

Railroads Lock Horns Over Right To Timber

Seattle, Wash. (P)—Nature's quiet reign of many centuries over vast forests of the Olympic peninsula in western Washington will be broken soon by a battle of commercial interests for timber valued at more than $100,000,000.

Three transcontinental railroads and several large lumber companies have become involved in the fight. First plans for developing the peninsula were announced by the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads. These lines have started surveys for a proposed joint railroad extending nearly 60 miles north into the district from Grays harbor.

Logging railroads followed by declaring their intention of building south from Port Angeles on the northern tip of the peninsula. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad has extensive interests in the district and lumbermen expect the road to extend its line from the north.

Behind the railroad plans lies a struggle between big lumber companies. Puget sound interests say the Olympic timber is necessary for hemlock, Sitka spruce and western red cedar, all forest giants.

Texas Governor?

NEWSPAPER WOMAN IN TEXAS TO RUN FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Miss Katie Daffan Announces Candidacy a Year Before Primaries

Austin, Tex. (P)—A newspaper woman has announced her candidacy for the governorship of Texas—a year in advance of the 1930 primaries.

Miss Katie Daffan's campaign will mark her debut in the political arena. It may be the climax to an active literary career and many years of leadership in Texas women's organizations.

Sponsoring her candidacy is the Texas division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, of which she has been president four times. This second woman to seek the rank of chief executive in the Lone Star state may be opposed by Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, who was governor before Dan Moody, the incumbent. Some political prophets say that Mrs. Ferguson again will be a candidate. She was defeated for reelection last year.

A. A. L. WILL LEND MEMBERS MONEY ON INSURANCE POLICIES

Accept Resignation of Dr. H. A. Hoyer as Association Medical Examiner

Holders of Aid Association for Lutherans insurance policies will be able to get cash loans on certificates in the amount of the reserve, it was decided by the board of directors of the association at their semi-annual meeting Saturday morning.

The step taken by the board has been pending for several months because of adverse insurance laws in several states. The laws now have been changed and hereafter Lutherans will be able to obtain loans on policies.

Resignation of Dr. H. A. Hoyer, Milwaukee, as medical director of the association was accepted by the directors. Dr. Hoyer was appointed several months ago to succeed his late father but found he could not satisfactorily take over the work. Dr. Mielke and Bolton, Appleton, will continue to do examining for the association.

The board also decided to discontinue the accumulative juvenile death certificates and instead give applicants benefit of 15, 20 and 25 year endowment policies which automatically are continued in the adult department after the holder becomes 16 years old.

Four members of the board were nominated for reelection next November. They are Albert Voelck, Appleton, Otto C. Rentner, Chicago, Henry Kahner, St. Paul, and C. J. Schulz, Saginaw, Mich. Branches of the association also will nominate four men for election to the board and the four receiving the highest number of votes among the eight nominated will be declared elected.

Saturday evening the board entertained at the Conway hotel for Dr. Arthur Krause, Cleveland, O., and J. W. Zschecho, St. Louis, Mo., both of whom were making their first visit to Appleton.

The directors also voted to make the position of vice president of the association an elective one. Alex. Benz, Chicago, is vice president and will come to Appleton soon to take over part of the administrative work.

21 RURAL BOYS ARE AT 4-H CLUB CAMP

Young Men Take Over Camp Chicagami Sunday After Girls Vacate

Twenty-one boys, members of county 4-H clubs, took over Camp Chicagami on the east shore of Lake Winnebago Sunday after it was vacated by 25 girl 4-H clubbers who had camped there from Wednesday. The boys will be at camp until Wednesday when 50 members of rural women's home economics clubs will go to camp until Friday.

Sunday was parents' day at camp and about 60 fathers and mothers were present to inspect the place where their children are camping. A 4-H club service was held in the morning and Congressman George J. Schneider gave an address on Loyalty to Our National Ideals and C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary at the Appleton Y. M. C. A., talked on Loyalty to Our Religion.

In the afternoon a program was presented by the girls and the entire group went for a swim. A basket lunch was served at noon.

Gus Sell, county agent, and Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader, are in charge of the camp. They are being assisted by the camp officials who are in charge of the place when the Boy Scouts camp there. The camp is owned by the Valley Scout council.

FRATERNITY OFFICIALS DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Forty officials of Phi Delta Theta, national social fraternity, convened in Appleton over the weekend to discuss fraternity problems. Headquarters are at Riverview Country club, and local arrangements are in charge of George Banta, Jr., Neenah, editor and member of the general council.

Endowment problems were discussed Sunday, and in the evening the delegates had a beach supper at the cottage of Mrs. W. H. Killen, and a ride on the F. S. Shattuck boat.

Speakers at the dinner scheduled for Monday evening at Riverview are Cecil J. Wilkinson, Washington, D. C., executive secretary and editor of Phi Gamma Delta. Dean Scott H. Goodnight of the University of Wisconsin, and Dean E. Nicholson of the University of Minnesota.

DELEGATES BACK FROM LABOR CONVENTION

Fred Bachman, city treasurer, Congressman George J. Schneider, John Jacobs and Carl Smith, Appleton delegates to the convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, have returned from Fond du Lac. Mr. Bachman was appointed chairman of the education committee, and Congressman Schneider was reelected to the executive board.

Mr. Bachman represented the federated trades of Appleton, Congressman Schneider the papermakers, Mr. Jacobs the meat cutters, and Mr. Smith the carpenters.

SEEKS INFORMATION ON WAGES PAID ROAD MEN

The scale of wages paid to road employees in other counties in this vicinity is being sought by Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, who is sending letters to the other county commissioners asking for the information. Mr. Appleton has asked for information from Shawano, Brown, Winnebago and Waupaca. He will present his information to the highway committee after it is compiled.

Elk Band Returns From Coast Trip

Here's part of the group that welcomed the Elk club band when it returned Monday morning from a triumphant trip to the annual Elk convention and a tour of the west coast. The picture shows part of the 120th field artillery band which turned out to escort the Elk band to the clubrooms. Director Edward F. Mumm is shown receiving the congratulations of some of his bandmen who were forced to remain at home while the other boys went touring. The Elk band won first place in competition with 47 other bands at the convention.

Did Elk Band Make Hit? Just Read These Comments

Letters, post cards and notes of commendation and praise for Appleton Elk band which Monday returned from a concert tour of the west coast and a visit to the Elks' national convention at Los Angeles, have been received daily by Appleton chamber of commerce.

Many of the letters and notes are from former Appleton and Wisconsin people and show the way in which the band was received on its western jaunt.

Mrs. A. H. Ackerman, Portland, Ore., writes a post card: "Just heard your Elk band in a very beautiful concert and we thank you for the treat."

E. W. Burns of Beaverton, Ore., which is referred to as being in the "twilight of Oregon" says: "That band was wonderful. Best we ever heard over radio. Come west again."

A former Appleton woman Mrs. E. N. Jory, Portland, Ore., whose father J. C. Miller, was a photographer here years ago and whose grandmother, Mrs. Louis DeGuire, still lives at 1316 Jackson-st., says she was glad to hear the band which was a surprise in more than one way.

Other comments are as follows: "That band played over the radio today. I turned the radio loose and everyone heard that fine playing and what the leader had to say. Fine, excellent. Come again!"—Frank M. Saunders, Portland, Ore.

"We wish to assure you that the concert given by the Elk band was excellent. Being performers and having performed in the rendering of several of the selections we can surely appreciate the tempos, solos and especially the well balanced effect. Your basses have the true idea of volume." C. P. Shields and A. Mahoney, Portland, Ore.

"We have just listened in to a lovely concert by the prize winning military band and will say that for an eastern band to come so far and win the first prize is quite an honor of course. The leader made a little speech too, and we would like to shake hands with him and tell him we enjoyed it all. So peppy and full of rhythm." Mrs. A. W. Allen, Portland, Ore.

"I wish to thank the Elks association band for the splendid concert broadcast through station KQW in Portland, Ore. July 15. I enjoyed all the program and hope some day to hear another concert played by your band." Mrs. Mary F. O'Hare, Oswego, Ore. Mrs. O'Hare is formerly of Stevens Point.

And another former Appleton woman, Mrs. Lorraine Blissing Penning, Hollywood, Calif., has this to say about the band: "The Wisconsin band was one which anyone would have been proud of had they seen them marching in a parade where many states were represented. They were given the honor of being mentioned over the radio for their perfect rhythm while marching and their spotless uniforms."

"Wisconsin will no doubt be proud to know that the Appleton band took first prize competing with 47 other bands from various states. They also were awarded a prize of $200 for coming the longest distance. Their wonderful programs broadcast over the largest broadcasting stations here were greatly appreciated with telephone calls for requests numbers from people in Los Angeles and surrounding places."

FINE IOLA MEN ON DRUNKENNESS CHARGES

Gerhart Simonson and Clarence Johnson, Iola, were arraigned Monday morning before Justice M. B. Scott, Waupaca, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. They were arrested by Sheriff Arthur Steenbach at 3:30 Sunday morning in their car about three miles west of Iola. They pleaded guilty to the charge. Simonson paid a fine of $10 and costs while Johnson paid $5 and costs.

MAN IS ARRESTED ON DRUNKENNESS CHARGE

Martin Radtke town of Freedom, is to be arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday afternoon on a charge of drunkenness. He was arrested at his home Saturday evening by Sheriff Fred W. Giese on complaint of his wife. Radtke was released Sunday when he filed a bond of $50 with the sheriff to insure his appearance in court.

ELK BAND RETURNS FROM CONCERT TOUR

Will Be Guests of Club Monday Night at Dinner at Clubrooms

Appleton Elks' band returned to the city Monday morning completing an 18 day trip to the national convention of the Elk club at Los Angeles and a concert tour of west coast cities. A delegation of Appleton Elks, and a part of the 120th field artillery band were at the train to greet the returning men. W. C. Jacobson, exalted ruler of Appleton lodge also returned with the band. He was official delegate to the convention.

Monday evening the band will be feted by the Appleton club at Elk lodge rooms. The band also will play several numbers which were played during concerts on the coast and helped the unit win first place in class B band competition.

SEEK INFORMATION ABOUT OLD TANNERIES

Information about old time tanneries being sought by J. L. Lamb, of the Fred Rueping Leather company, Fond du Lac, according to a letter received here by Appleton chamber of commerce. Mr. Lamb is making a search for historical notes on old tanneries and is seeking whatever information may be obtained for old tannery employees in this section. Persons knowing about early tanneries or knowing any one who knows of the early work should communicate with the chamber of commerce or with Mr. Lamb.

FOUR CENT GASOLINE TAX

The legislature appears to be moving toward a four cent gasoline tax. The assembly, after killing Gov. Kohler's plan to assess an additional cent to be set aside chiefly as a through road fund, advanced the finance committee's measure which also provides for a one cent gasoline tax increase, but gives localities an estimated $1,800,000 more for their roads than the governor's bill. In addition there is a measure in the senate which would increase the gasoline tax one cent as a substitute for the personal property tax on automobiles. If both bills are passed and approved by the governor Wisconsin will have a four cent gasoline tax next year instead of the present two cent.

The differences over the house measure are solely one of application of the proceeds and we are inclined to support the position of those who would give local communities a larger share. The state is fairly well provided with through highways of permanent construction. These roads have been built at great expense to all taxpayers of the state, small as well as large. There is probably merit in the contention that the local communities ought to have a larger share in any additional general tax because it is a well known fact that that is where the poorest roads are now to be found. It is all right to build numerous trunk lines and cross state highways, but when we do it is incumbent to develop town roads proportionately to their importance, tax contributions, etc. We do not think that exception can properly be taken to an increase of one cent in the tax itself. The only question is what is to be done with the proceeds. In this case it probably would be better if executive judgment would give way to legislative preference, even though the latter is admittedly more political.

With reference to the senate bill which would add still another cent to the gasoline tax, making a total of four cents, it is offset by repeal of the property tax upon the automobile. We think it is a sounder and saner means of taxing automobile owners than the personal property tax, so open to favoritism and discrimination. On the whole, it would probably reduce the total tax paid by the car owner. Both bills, we believe, should be enacted despite the fact that they give Wisconsin a four cent gasoline tax.

POSSIBILITY OF PEACE

The probability is there will be no war between Russia and China. Already the clouds are beginning to lighten. Pressure of the peace-minded world is being brought to bear upon the disputants. The United States has taken the initiative in invoking the Kellogg pact and it is expected that Japan, Great Britain and France will join with it in the attempt to make the pledge to which both China and Russia have subscribed renouncing war effective. It has been suggested at Peking and Moscow that the dispute appears to be susceptible to arbitration, in fact China is already asking for League of Nations intervention. In all probability the incident will terminate in mediation or arbitration if the principals themselves do not get together. The chief danger is that border hostilities may precipitate war before mediation can succeed.

There are reasons for believing that Russia does not want war, which would be maintained with difficulty at so great a distance from bases and with inadequate transportation facilities. There is always the possibility of peasant as well as state revolt, while the potentialities of defeat in a conflict with China would be extremely grave. Although China is not regarded as a formidable military power, it nevertheless possesses some excellent fighting forces and more or less modern equipment. It has just emerged from a constructive civil war that has given it experience in modern military practices. The nationalist spirit is strong and will undoubtedly be augmented by what all China would regard as a defensive war. It is by no means certain that the soviet could defeat China, and in the background it might have Japan to reckon with.

The extensive consequences of an outbreak in the Far East invite extreme measures of restraint to compel if possible a peaceful settlement of the differences in Manchuria and disposition of the Chinese Eastern railway. In fact, we expect to see a demonstration of the value and potency of the Kellogg treaty in this very grave crisis. The forces of peace are becoming more powerful than the militarists are willing to concede. We think they will prevail upon China and Russia not to draw the sword.

THE WICKERSHAM LETTER

Mr. Wickersham's letter to Gov. Roosevelt suggesting that the states bear their share of the burden of prohibition enforcement precipitated an acute outburst of wet and dry debate. It is a peculiar fact that in both camps the letter was interpreted differently, according to fixed viewpoints. The wets have denounced it on the ground that it requires in effect acceptance by the states of the principle of concurrent jurisdiction as well as recognition of the duty to cooperate with the federal government in bonafide enforcement. The dries see in it an opening wedge to modification.

There is plenty in Mr. Wickersham's proposal to warrant wet apprehensions. Referring to the "undoubted abuses which have grown up under the eighteenth amendment," Mr. Wickersham says that "part are due to the failure of some states to accept their share of responsibility for concurrent enforcement." It is to be noted also that he writes that "every state executive has sworn to support and defend the constitution of the United States. The eighteenth amendment is a part of the constitution just as much as any other part. Surely it is pertinent to their conference (i. e., of the governors) to suggest and consider how they may best carry out their solemn undertaking."

The New York World cites Howard Lee McBain, professor of constitutional law at Columbia, as authority for the contention that the eighteenth amendment places no obligation upon the states to enforce national prohibition. Professor McBain bases his argument on a decision of the United States supreme court which appears to interpret concurrent jurisdiction as merely leaving the state free to enact prohibition laws, but imposes no legal or moral duty. President Hoover and Mr. Wickersham appear to hold a contrary view. However that may be, there are distinguished dries who have taken umbrage at Mr. Wickersham's letter, including Senator Borah who says it makes "plain his (Wickersham's) belief that the dry law cannot be enforced."

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, one of the wettest governors of the Union, made a bitter attack upon the plan, taking the view that it calls for genuine cooperation by the states to enforce national prohibition. There are dries who fear it would permit states to modify prohibition in the direction of greater liberality and that it would open the door to modification of the eighteenth amendment. There are some wets who grasp at this straw but they do not seem to be enthusiastic.

As a matter of fact, the Wickersham letter may be interpreted by either side, according to what it is hoped to find in the document. Whatever the head of the president's crime commission may actually have in mind, the incident serves to concentrate and intensify public attention on the question of what is to be done toward modification as well as better enforcement. It begins to take account of practical considerations and difficulties which experience under prohibition recommends. It gives added recognition to the undoubted fact that prohibition as undertaken is unenforceable and undesirable. It arouses serious public thinking, and except upon dry and wet fanatics, leads to a temperate and intelligent consideration of the liquor problem in a broad way.

Seen And Heard
In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Bagdad-on-Subway is a most wonderful place.

The Merchants' Association, setting out to establish the seven wonders of New York, soon learned that, from selected experts have come all kinds of suggestions, with architectural and engineering marvels in the lead.

The first poll resulted in this list:

The water supply system, Woolworth building, subway system, Metropolitan museum of art, Brooklyn bridge, skyline, Grand Central station, Statue of Liberty, Medical Center and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

WATERING THE MILLIONS

Opinions differ and the visitor is likely to find that the Woolworth tower is just another skyscraper and the Brooklyn span just another bridge.

The Catskill water system, however, is a real wonder that has, not in the estimation of engineers, received the recognition it merits.

For more than 125 miles great pipes bring the rain that is shed over 968 square miles of upstate New York and collected in a chain of reservoirs and lakes.

It takes an entire day for this water to flow down to the apartment plumbing in Manhattan.

Around the reservoir the city has planted trees, so that they have become favorite picnic grounds for tourists. At two, Ashokan and Kensico, are aerating plants whose broad geysers are sights of the countryside.

Seventeen dams, 18 lakes and 15 reservoirs are linked in the chain that supplies New York with an average of more than 800,000,000 gallons of water daily.

The most marvelous part of this system, perhaps, is that which cannot be seen. For under the miles of green landscape and through the mountains are enormous tunnels that finally drop 1,155 feet, through granite rock, under the Hudson river. Rising again, they branch out 200 feet below the rocky crust of Manhattan, where the flow is tapped by the city's mains.

This system, on which $187,000,000 has been spent, is a development of more than 30 years. And it still is growing. The next extension will draw from the Delaware river basin additional water to be piped under the Hudson and mingled with the Catskill waters.

ENGINEERING FEAT

With its great dams and reservoirs, its chlorinating and aerating plants and its 14-foot eque ducts and tunnels, the Catskill water system is said to be comparable only to the Panama canal as an engineering wonder.

Nor does this include the Long Island wells, which supply Brooklyn and other points in Great or New York with almost 100,000,000 gallons of water daily.

Now, perhaps, as a result of the merchants' poll, it will attract the attention it has missed, not only from those who come out of the hinterlands, but also from the people of a city that used 1,000,000,000 gallons of water on a recent hot day.

It may even prove interesting to the youngsters who, that same day, splashed gleefully in the Maine memorial fountain at Columbus Circle, or stood in the spray from east side fire hydrants, getting a municipal shower bath.

Today's Anniversary

SIEGE OF ATLANTA

The Battle of Atlanta, which led to the capture of Atlanta, Ga., by Federal troops on September 1, was started on July 22, 1864.

Because of its strategic location, Atlanta became a target of the Confederates in the Civil War, one of the most important cities in the Confederacy. It was a rallying place for recruits, a depot for supplies, and the center of manufacture for arms and ammunition.

For this reason it was the objective of General Sherman when he started his famous march to the sea.

After one preliminary skirmish outside of Atlanta on July 20, the siege of Atlanta began on July 22. Hood, the Confederate general in command, made a bloody but unsuccessful attack on Sherman's extreme left under command of McPherson, who was killed in the battle. Loss of federal troops in this battle was estimated to be 20,000, while the Confederate loss was nearly 15,000. Hood again attacked on July 28, and, as before, was repulsed.

Meanwhile, Sherman had continued his bombardment of the city and on September 1 it was evacuated by Hood and his troops and the federal troops took possession the next day.

IS FRUIT OR MEAT THE THING TO EAT WHEN ONE MUST COPE WITH SUMMER
HEAT?

Is a body any warmer on a hot and humid summer day than on a nice cool winter day? Not measurably. The thermometer will usually show that the body temperature is the same, whether one feels comfortably cool or oppressively overheated. The feeling of comfort or discomfort depends rather upon the efficiency of the heat regulating mechanism, especially the means for the dissipation or loss of heat from the body, than upon the heat produced by the body from the oxidation of food or tissue fuel.

Of the 3 essential food materials, the fats or oils yield the greatest amount of heat. The sugars or starches and the nitrogenous materials, such as albumen, lean meat, cheese, are virtually equal in heat producing value. Thus, an ounce of carbohydrate (any sugar or starch) yields approximately 116 calories, and an ounce of any protein (albumen or nitrogenous material) yields exactly the same number of calories; whereas one ounce of pure animal or vegetable fat or oil yields 284 calories.

So far as diet is concerned, appetite tends to regulate the quantity of food eaten. In hot weather one naturally has little desire for such foods as hot water, but the art of cooking and the legend of the beverage dispenser and confederator generally nullify appetite, and nearly all overeating or overindulgence is accordingly in the delectable carbohydrates.

There is a strong popular belief that it is better to eat little meat on a hot day. This seems to have some solid foundation, for protein material, when consumed in excess, increases metabolism more than fat or carbohydrate does, acting somewhat as a stimulant. Nutrition students call this stimulating action of certain food materials specific dynamic action, and it is greatest from proteins; fats come next; sugar has the lowest specific dynamic action of all food stuffs. It is probably this specific dynamic or stimulating action of much meat that accounts for the excessive perspiration of persons who eat meat freely in hot weather. It doesn't make much difference whether the meat is eaten hot or cold.

Fresh fruit and fresh vegetables, especially green relishes, or salad vegetables are ideal hot weather foods. To convert your dish of berries into ideal cold weather food you have only to drown the berries in cream and disguise them well with sugar; or if they're cranberries, take a generous slice of turkey or some such trifle on the side. Of the two methods the latter gives the warmer results.

In hot weather it is better to take a light mid day lunch if any, and have the principal meal of the day in the cool of the evening. For the sedentary individual a noontime lunch of crackers and milk, the milk sipped leisurely and the crackers chewed even more so, or lettuce, cheese or tomato sandwich with tea or coffee and a bit of fruit.

Another popular notion is not so sound. As a rule the less one is troubled by excessive heat or perspiration, the more one should avoid drinking much cold water as most likely to experience discomfort from hot weather. So it is a sensible rule to increase the daily water allowance materially when hot weather comes. This is not only natural but healthful.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tuberculous Conversation
I work in a tuberculous hospital, and as I go about my work I can't help talking more or less with patients on the floor. Is there any danger of catching the disease in this way? (Mrs. P. L. W.)

Answer—In the average well conducted tuberculosis hospital you are probably in less danger of catching tuberculosis than you would be anywhere else. That is because the patients know how to be careful and considerable. Learning how to be careful and considerate is one of the advantages of a sojourn in such a hospital, for anyone with tuberculosis is, if one with active tuberculosis of the lung (presumably giving off tubercle bacilli) talks with mouth uncovered, the conversational spray may carry the tubercle bacilli. The spray range is less than five feet in ordinary conversation. So if you are five or six feet or more away from the patient you are out of range and out of possible danger of infection during such conversation.

When Is a Nurse a Lady?
...and I had quite a severe attack of what a lady who is a nurse said was acute indigestion. (Mrs. M. C.)

Answer—If a nurse is a lady she'll say she doesn't know what such an attack is, she'll shift the responsibility of diagnosis and prognosis to the physician.

Talking Back to the Sergeant
I eat a raw onion nearly every day with my meals. I had an argument with my superior officer. I say they're healthy and he says they are not. Kindly settle this. (P. G.)

Answer—If one likes onion it is healthful enough.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Impressions of stars garnered freely from a loquacious, friendly house painter, once a movie extra, but now plying his art on Hollywood homes:

John Barrymore: "A fine gentleman.... When were working on his house in Beverly Hills he was sure great to us.... talked it over; gave us cigarettes.... you know.... Of course, he's awfully busy.... But words! Man, he sure uses words.... The kind I'd go home and look up in the dictionary at night.... But what else could you expect of a Shakespearean actor?"

John Gilbert: "He must be a great guy, too. Never worked on his place myself, but Barrymore's house is right near his, and, say, his gardener sure swears by him.... and that's a sure sign he's all O. K...."

HERE'S POLA

Pola Negri: "Say, boy, they say this Pola is all temperamental and uppish.... Well, it may be so; she's gone to Europe now, you know; but let me tell you one thing; she was all there! I've known what? When we were painting that white house of hers in Hollywood—well, of course, she was awful busy then, but she was mighty nice anyway; left orders to her maid to have us served lunch and all—and I've known what? We didn't get any ordinary service, either; it was silver service...."

Tom Mix: "Used to have a friend lived next door to him.... Once I was waiting for this man and got to chatting over the hedge next door neighbors.... Mighty amiable.... I didn't know till he left and my friend came up that Tom was Tom a-tall!"

AND ROD

Rod LaRoque: "There's a prince.... a deuce of a good fellow.... D'ye know what? I've got a cigar box he gave me just because I admired it one day when we were painting at his place.... He's the sort of guy that'll ride with his chauffeur, with the back seat of the limousine empty...."

And then, be it known, are impressions this young man—his name is Dick Beggs—gained not as movie extra, but as an unsuspected reporter spreading paint in the homes of the stars.

Nor were his impressions always so flattering; witness his characterizing summary of a well known star with whom he once worked in his extra days: "He was the kind of an actor that thought the camera's eye was just a misalliance built for one—and he was the one...."

Warning, therefore, ye stars! ye gaudiest stars: "By your painters henceforth shall ye be known!"

BETTER WEATHER
BOOSTS EFFICIENCY OF AIR MAIL LINE

Plane Misses Single Day
Since May 1 Records at Post Office Show

Not a single day in June or so far in July passed without Appleton receiving its daily air mail service, according to W. H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster. And to further enhance this record, Mr. Zuehlke said that the plane missed only one day in May.

During the winter when weather conditions were bad, the air mail plane operating in the Fox River valley between Milwaukee and Green Bay only when it could do so with safety. With the coming of better weather and more favorable flying conditions the plane operated more regularly until at the present time it is giving 100 per cent service.

There is still plenty of room for expansion in the use of the air mail service in Appleton, Mr. Zuehlke said. On Thursday of this week more than 400 incoming pieces of mail were received, one of the largest shipments since the inauguration of the service.

Letters mailed here via air mail connect with east and west bound planes at Chicago.

The reduction in air mail rates and the constant addition to the network of air lines making speedier service available, will eventually increase the amount of mail from this office, Mr. Zuehlke believes. Complete schedules of routes and connections can be received at the local office.

Your Question And Its Answer

J.A. Panneck, D.C.
PALMER CHIROPRACTOR

QUESTION: Is Chiropractic effective in acute sickness?—J. H. S.

ANSWER: Chiropractic is even more effective in acute disorders than chronic disorders. Chiropractic is a comparatively new profession and many people hesitate to employ a Chiropractor until they have tried all other known methods. Thus it is that the cases that come to the Chiropractor are usually chronic ones that have been the rounds of other practitioners.

QUESTION: Does the patient recover rapidly under Chiropractic adjustments if suffering from a general rundown condition?—F. J.

ANSWER: As a rule recoveries occur in a great majority of all sicknesses because, after all, nature is the only great Doctor and the healing comes from within. Just as it is true that the healing comes from within so it is also true that the sickness occurs from internal causes. The province of Chiropractic is to hasten the recovery because the very fundamental principle in this modern health method is to permit normal expression of vital function through the nervous system. When this normal vitality has an opportunity to express itself, it quickly leads to health. The Chiropractor knows that, after all, a physical disorder exists within and this physical disorder must be corrected before health will return.

Members Of League Back From Meet

ARTHUR Kahler, president of the South Wisconsin district of the Walther League, Miss Lillian Herman secretary of the Fox River Valley zone, and representative of the Senior branch of the Walther League and Loyal Order of the Moose, returned today from the thirty-seventh International Walther League convention at Fort Wayne, Ind., July 14 to 18.

The Walther League is an international organization of Lutheran church young people within the Synodical conference, which began in 1802 in Buffalo, New York. Its membership consists of 40,131 seniors and 11,267 juniors in 38 districts in the United States and Canada, and is known as the largest young people's organization in the world.

The program for the convention included the opening session Sunday afternoon at which the Rev. Paul Lindemann, St. Paul, Minn., was the speaker. His address, "Serve the Lord with Gladness," was broadcast over station WWOV. On Sunday evening a concert at Concordia College hall by a children's chorus of 800 voices was followed by an informal reception. Monday afternoon a sightseeing tour covering 25 miles and including a parade of 2000 cars entertained the visitors. The feature of the evening was a concert by the Fort Wayne Choral society of 150 voices at the college hall.

Fred A. Klein, Fort Wayne, the oldest member of the league and one of the principal speakers of the convention, gave a retrospect of the organization Tuesday morning. Mr. Klein served as international president from 1904 to 1910, as field secretary from 1910 to 1918, and was chairman of the executive board from 1919 to 1923. Tuesday evening the fellowship dinner took place at which a quartet from Concordia College entertained. Wednesday evening was devoted to meetings, and Thursday evening the convention picnic was held at Sweeney park.

The Walther league post convention tour to the city of Carleton began on Friday morning, and was to take in Detroit, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, Boston, New York, and Washington, D. C.

PARTIES

Seventy relatives and friends gathered at the home of August Tank, town of Harrison, Sunday in honor of a group of out-of-town guests who were visiting at the Tank home. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tank, Milwaukee, S. D.; Mrs. Roscoe Dooley, Marseilles, Ill.; Charles Boness, LaSalle, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gasper and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Naische, Mr. and Mrs. Max Tank and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tank, Mrs. A. Midebrath, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kortebof, Arthur and Otto Tank Milwaukee.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shipley and son, Dexter, Oshkosh; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Tank, Mr. and Mrs. William Tank, Carl, and Miss Laura Tank, Neenah, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Falk and family, Harold Falk, Herman Schultz, Mrs. Bertha Midebrath, Mrs. A. Koletzke, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tank and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vargis, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Krueger and family, and Otto Tank Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tank, Miss Mable Tank, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tank, August and Walter Tank, Fred and Carl Ecker and Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Ecker and family of Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glander, Packard-st., entertained at the cottage, Idlewild, at White Lake Sunday in honor of Mr. Glander's birthday anniversary. Games, boating and fishing furnished entertainment. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Deml, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Booth and son Fred, Mrs. Catherine Henry and son George, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schultz and daughter Carol, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stogert of Appleton. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buttman, and Miss Ida Unlau of Oshkosh; and Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Johnson, Los Angeles, Calif.

Eleven friends entertained Saturday evening at a bachelor dinner in the Blue room of Conway hotel in honor of Bruce Getschow, who will be married Saturday. The party included Donald and Albert Joyce, Dimmett and Robert Verbrück, Kenneth and Marvin Wiggins, Alden Buchert, Robert Getschow, Douglas Kaufman, Joseph Hantschel and Irvin Williamson.

Mrs. Albert Deitgen, 715 W. Wisconsin-ave, was hostess at a surprise party Sunday afternoon and evening at her home in honor of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Merkel. Grand Chute Miss Mildred Merkel and Mrs. Henry Buss entertained with a mock wedding in which Miss Merkel wore the wedding gown which her mother had worn 25 years ago. Games were played and dinner and supper were served to about 40 guests. Out of town guests were Otto Buss and children, Edward Buss, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Buss and family, all of Menasha.

Mrs. G. D. Ziegler and Mrs. Louis Freude were hostesses to wives of directors of the Aid Association for Lutherans Saturday at a luncheon at the Candle Glow tea room. After the luncheon the guests adjourned to Pierce park where a program of games was played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Henry Kahner, St. Paul, and Mrs. John Schöettler. A picnic supper was served at the home of Mrs. Ziegler. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Alex Benz, Fond du Lac, Mrs. Albert Dahms, Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Henry Kahner, St. Paul, Minn.

CHURCH SOCIETY TO HOLD PICNIC AT LAKE COTTAGE

The Women's Missionary society of Memorial Presbyterian church will be entertained at a picnic Wednesday afternoon at the cottage of Mrs. W. H. Killen at the lake. Mrs. W. A. Fannon will be assistant hostess. Members are requested to bring their own sandwiches, one covered dish, and the dishes they will need. A picnic luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. Those who will have room in their cars are asked to notify Mrs. Mary Hensel or Mrs. G. A. Evans.

The subject for the meeting is Our Own Mission in New Mexico, a partial report on the presbyterial meeting at Wausau which took place in April. The summer Christmas tree program has been postponed until August.

WEDDINGS

Miss Catherine T. Tepp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tepp of Stevens Point, and Stanley A. Staidl, district attorney for Outagamie-co., were married at 8 o'clock this morning at St. Edward church, Mackinac.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. M. Francis Janssens of Rome, Italy, the abbot general of the Cistercian order of monks, assisted by the Rev. George A. Schemmer pastor of St. Edward church. The Rt. Rev. Abbot Janssens, who came to America to visit the Cistercian monastery at Springbank, near Milwaukee, is a guest of the Rev. Father Schemmer for a few days.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Staidl left for Madison where Mr. Staidl was to see Governor Walter J. Kohler this afternoon to present his formal complaint in the investigation of the office of Sheriff Fred W. Giese, and after finishing that task the couple will go to Selfridge field, Michigan, to remain about two weeks.

Mr. Staidl, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Staidl of Shawano, has been a resident of Appleton for about ten years, coming here to become a partner of John A. Lonsdorf in the law business. After Mr. Lonsdorf became district attorney Mr. Staidl was appointed his assistant and last year Mr. Staidl was elected district attorney.

The bride had been employed as an accountant by the Durham Lumber Co. of Neenah.

Miss Margaret De Broux, daughter of Mrs. Philomene De Broux, Appleton, and Theodore Hietpas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Hietpas, Little Chute, were married Monday morning at St. Joseph church, West De Pere. The Rev. L. H. Traeger performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. The high Mass was sung by the Abbey choir. At the offertory, Ralph Smuts sang, "Ave Maria" and after the Mass, "Ave" and Ralph De Broux sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother." Miss Philomene Hietpas and Miss Gertrude Timmers were the bridesmaids and Leola De Broux acted as flower girl. The bridegroom was attended by Julius De Broux and John Hietpas. Henry Hietpas and Louis De Broux were ushers. The bride was given away in marriage by her uncle, Joseph Rabideau. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at Mc's Restaurant, De Pere, to immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Hietpas will make their home in West De Pere after a wedding trip. Mrs. Hietpas has been a music teacher at West De Pere for the past seven years, during which time she made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rabideau.

Guests included the Rev. L. H. Traeger, Mr. and Mrs. Louis De Broux and daughter Leola, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rabideau, Mrs. Mary Brouillard, West De Pere; Mrs. Philomene De Broux and son Julius Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Hietpas, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard De Coster, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert De Broux, the Misses Dorothy and Philomene Hietpas, Miss Josephine Vande Heuvel, Henry and John Hietpas, John and Raymond Dietrich, Little Chute, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph De Broux, Miss Gertrude Timmers, Kaukauna, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Huybers, Mattoon; Mr. and Mrs. Leon De Broux, Port Washington; Mrs. Elizabeth Wynboom, Lebanon.

Miss Anita Hoerning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hoerning, 1741 N. Superior-st., and Roy Glaser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Glaser, 407 N. Richmond-st., were married at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Menominee. Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Ganske, Appleton acted as attendants. A reception for about 50 guests took place Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Glaser will reside at 1741 N. Superior-st.

The marriage of Miss Mable Rohm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohm, route 4, Appleton, and Landt Schommer, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Schommer, Little Chute, took place at 6 o'clock Saturday evening in the parsonage of St. Mark church, Kenosha. The Rev. H. H. Berg performed the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Eleanor Waller, Appleton, and Maurice Sues, Menasha. Following the ceremony, dinner was served to immediate relatives at the Elks club at Kenosha. After a week's trip to Chicago and Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Schommer will make their home at 6817 Second-ave, Kenosha. Mr. Schommer is employed in Kenosha.

KIWANIS WILL HEAR ABOUT NEW TAX BILL

For the Business Woman

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON
A cool printed crepe de chine that is washable is an economical choice for the business woman, or for the woman who stays in town during the summer months.

Style No. 2851 is a splendid way to make it. It is decidedly slender, distinguished by exquisite details. The skirt with circular flare is attached to a smooth fitting yoke that tapers to left side reaching almost to waistline, which creates a charming diagonal line both front and back. It achieves a one-sided bolero suggestion through panel attached at right shoulder.

It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It is very smart and serviceable, fashioned of printed cotton voile, shantung, printed rayon or navy blue georgette crepe. It can also be made without sleeves.

Pattern price 15 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department, The New Fashion Magazine is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

A social meeting of the Zion Lutheran Young People's society of Zion Lutheran church will take place Monday evening at Alicia park. A program of games will provide the entertainment. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Evelyn Feldman, Vernon Holteiman, Louis Waltman, and Evelyn Solie.

The Baptist Young People's union of First Baptist church met Sunday evening at the church. Miss Evelyn Stallman reported a balance of $8.30 from the proceeds of the ice cream social which the group sponsored Saturday. A brief song service followed the business session. Twelve members were present.

Mrs. A. Ely's circle of the Ladies Aid society of Memorial Presbyterian church met Friday afternoon at the cottage of Mrs. W. H. Killen at the lake. The afternoon was spent informally and a luncheon was served. Eighteen members were present.

2 TRAFFIC OFFENDERS ARE FINED BY JUDGE

Hilary Salentine, Appleton, was fined $5 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning when he pleaded guilty of parking his car without lights in the town of Grand Chute one night last week. He was arrested by Herman Abitz, town constable. George Rienke, Appleton, was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty in court Monday morning of reckless driving 55 miles an hour on Highway 47 in the town of Centerville Saturday afternoon. Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer, made the arrest.

BISHOP WILSON IS ENGAGED TO ILLINOIS WOMAN

Chicago —(AP)— Announcement of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Lorinda Hall, daughter of Mrs. William Treston Hall of Evanston, Ill., to the Right Rev. Frank Elmer Wilson, D. D., of Eau Claire, Wis., was made today in the Chicago Daily Journal.

The romance started in the days when they both here. They met by chance last Easter when Dr. Wilson was here giving Lenten talks.

Dr. Wilson, the youngest Episcopal bishop in the country, is the son of Mrs. William White Wilson and of the late Rev. William White Wilson, for many years rector of St. Mark's church in Chicago. He is a graduate of Hobart college in New York state.

Miss Hall's father was the late "Biff" Hall, well known in Chicago as a sports writer and dramatic critic. She is a graduate of Chicago university and formerly headed the women's department of S. W. Straus interests. The marriage will take place in the fall.

Bishop Wilson is 44 years old. Episcopal churchmen here said the marriage of a bishop subsequent to his elevation to the high church office is an unusual event.

S. E. C. club was entertained Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn, Hancock-st. Three tables of schafkopf were in play and prizes were won by Mrs. Joseph Merkes, Mrs. George Wiegand, and Leo Flynn. There will be no more meetings until September.

Mrs. John McCarter, 126 W. Foster-st., will be hostess to the Rebekah Three Links club at 2 30 Wednesday afternoon at her home. A social hour has been planned.

Members of a bridge club and their families were entertained at the annual picnic of the group Sunday at Braeside Pines. The afternoon was spent in fishing, bathing, and games. Nineteen Appleton people attended.

The Tynmites By Hal Cochran

At last the Willies came ashore, and they were greeted with a roar. "You're great," exclaimed one. "You're great," you're great as can be. I wish that I could swim like that. To all of you I tip my hat. Save other tricks for morning. It's so dark now we can't see."

"I'll tell you what," one Willie said, "let's try and find a cozy bed and all turn in to get some sleep. 'Twill make us feel real fine. Nearby we'll find some leaves, I'll bet, and if they are not soaking wet I'll spread them into soft spots, bunched together in a line."

The bunch agreed this plan was great and so they didn't hesitate, but scampered over near some trees. Then Copsy cried, "Look here! I've found the very thing we seek. Into these leaves I'm going to sneak."

And soon they all had little beds which filled them up with cheer. All through the night they slept real sound. A big cow wandering o'er the ground looked lazy little Copsy's face. He jumped up, in a fright, and shouted, "Hey, get out of here." This gave the cow a touch of fear. In just about a moment he had scampered out of sight.

Then Copsy watched the big sun rise. "It's morning! Open up your eyes," he cried to all the others, and they jumped up to their feet. One Willie said, "Say, Copsy boy, 'twould surely fill us all with joy if you would take a morning dive. Come on, show us a treat."

The Willies then went in the stream, and one exclaimed, "It doesn't seem so very cold. Come on, someone, and dive with all your might." "I will," yelled Copsy, "watch me go!" He then dove out. The bunch yelled, "Oh! That was a very wondrous dive. At diving you're all right."

(The Tynmites get a new thrill in the next story.)

I WANT to go to work, Pat, Tony answered her father's question with deadly earnestness.

"You mean—flying?" Pat gasped. "Now look here, Tony! I've been an easy mark all your life. You've been able to wrap me around your little finger."

"And how you're loved it," Tony reminded him. "Please don't get heavy and parental now, Pat! It's awfully serious with me. If I don't do something useful with my life, I may come another cropper."

"Just what are your plans, if I may ask?" Pat demanded with a sarcasm that did not hide his fear and pain.

"Nothing very definite yet, darling. You see, I've only known since this morning that I'm free! Oh, Pat—think of it! Free, free!"

"So you want to celebrate by breaking your neck, do you?" her father growled. "I wish to God I'd never given you that blasted plane—"

"But you did, darling, and I can't keep it in its hangar, eating its head off," Tony reminded him. "And you know darned well you are as proud as Punch of my endurance-flight record. I'd rather thought of going in with Sandy, in his passenger service, at a pilot until he has to give it up to be a lieutenant for the new air route between New York and Los Angeles. But I'd make a lot of money, too," she boasted. "Guess I've proved I'm a swell pilot."

A sudden thought seemed to give Pat new hope. "Have you talked this over with Sandy yet?"

Tony saw the drift, and laughed. "No, but I will before you can get to him and make him promise not to take me on as a partner!"

"Bet he won't do it," Pat exclaimed. "Why?" Tony was indignant.

"Well, young men in love with girls don't exactly relish the idea of their getting smashed up," Pat pointed out.

"In love?" Tony tried hard to keep indignation in her voice, but her eyes blazed with joy and hope. "I'd like to know why you think Sandy Ross is in love with me, Pat. Tarver?" And how she would like to know! "Why, hasn't he mentioned it yet?" Pat pretended great surprise. "That's a bad over on his part. I must say. Probably thinks you know it as well as everyone else. Of course I know you don't care a hoot about Sandy, in that way—"

"Oh, Pat, don't joke about it!" Tony cried, and tumbled off the arm of his chair into his lap. "I love him so much I can't bear for even you to talk about it lightly. But he's never said a word, hasn't even kissed me since we were kids—and I'm afraid I did the kissing then, not Sandy—"

"I'm not joking, honey," Pat assured her huskily. "I'd rather you married Sandy than any man in the world, and it's been torment seeing you mixed up with a no-good heart-breaker like Dick Talbot, when a real man like Sandy Ross was waiting till you got over your foolishness—"

"But—how am I going to make Sandy say something?" Tony wailed.

SMARTER COPS TO COPE WITH CRIME IN NEW YORK CITY

"College" Will Train Policemen to Combat Criminal Element

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

New York — The cops are getting smarter now that certain forms are entering the "big business" class and more educated men are being drawn into the ranks, so the cops should be smarter, too.

With this thought in mind, Grover A. Whalen, New York City's debaron police commissioner and head of the metropolis' 18,000 policemen, is getting ready to launch his "Cop College."

It will be opened in September in a building just across the street from police headquarters, formerly a candy factory, which is now being renovated for use as a temple of learning.

CRIMINALS EDUCATED NOW

"Criminals are getting smarter all the time," says Whalen, "and more high school and college men are entering their ranks. Science and invention are making it easier for them to work faster, more effectively and to flee quicker from scenes of crimes. Policemen, too, must be smarter and better educated to cope with them."

Wherefore, the "Cop College." This institution will offer academic opportunities to aspiring policemen. There'll be classes in the art of being a detective, in traffic administration, horsemanship, etc. Lawyers will teach the policemen how to make out warrants, affidavits and other legal papers properly, so the defendants won't later escape from the clutches of the law on some flimsy technicality.

The policeman will also be taught the law on the rights of themselves and others—which recalls Commissioner Whalen's famous statement of several months ago: "There's a lot of law in a nightstick."

HAS MANY INNOVATIONS

The "Cop College" is only one of Whalen's many innovations since the snappy and debaron ex-department store manager became New York City's police commissioner last December. His passed into the job from the general management of Wanamaker's great New York store, where, as an example of sartorial elegance and perfection, he had been the envy of every floor-walker.

During this time the impeccable Whalen had also served as New York City's "glad-hander," heading Mayor Walker's silk-hatted and frock-coated reception committees that went down the bay to welcome visiting royalty and returning heroes and lead them down Broadway in triumphal parade.

The 43-year-old police commissioner, who looks barely more than 35 and dresses with a fastidiousness that would put a matinee idol to shame, knows his New York. Like Ex-Governor Al Smith, he was born on the East Side. After passing through high school and attending law college for a time, he went to work in the office of his father, a building contractor.

ENTER INTO POLITICS

Whalen entered politics when he organized a business men's better government committee that later supported John F. Hyman for mayor. When Hyman was elected, he became the mayor's secretary. Later, he was a city commissioner. Retiring, he became general manager of Wanamaker's store.

Always an organizer and a go-getter, Whalen directed preparations for the trans-Atlantic flight of Commander Byrd, largely financed by Rodman Wanamaker. He grew in importance as a public figure.

When Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, was murdered last winter under a veil of mystery that even seven months has not dispelled, Mayor Walker met the situation by reorganizing the police department and appointing Whalen as its head. Whalen's new police reorganization plans diverted public attention from the Rothstein murder, but the mystery of Rothstein's death is still unsolved. So is the mystery of the more recent murder of Frank Marlow, another Broadway gambler-king. This was followed by another police shakeup.

"SECRET POLICE" ON JOB

But the dauntless police commissioner hopes to cope with such cases in the future. One of his newest innovations has been the appointment of a squad of 50 "secret police." These men will wear no badges, carry no guns, no police credentials, and their identity will be unknown to anyone—policemen included—except one or two of Whalen's trusted subordinates. They will mingle anonymously with known gunmen, racketeers and spend money with them. All the time they will keep their ears and eyes open—and when a crime is committed they probably will have enough information to give Whalen an inside track.

To rid the police force of graft, Whalen says he plans to retrain their pay. To encourage them, he plans medals and promotions as a reward for meritorious services and personal bravery.

WANTS COMMITTEE TO STUDY CONSOLIDATION

Madison — (AP) — An interim committee to study proposals for consolidations of agricultural divisions of the state government is requested in a resolution presented to the upper house of the legislature by Senator John C. Schuman, Watertown.

He urges a study be made by such committee before passage of any of the consolidation measures affecting agriculture. The Don W. Smith consolidation bill is now before the senate.

Schuman's committee would consist of three Assemblymen and three Senators, and would report to the 1931 session.

State H. S. Graduates Favor U. W., Lawrence

Lawrence college ran's second in favor among the high school graduates in Wisconsin who plan to attend colleges or universities next fall, according to figures compiled by the University of Wisconsin extension division. The survey of the various high schools in this district was made by Prof. Marshall C. Graff, Appleton.

Ten thousand one hundred sixteen blanks were received from high school seniors outside of Milwaukee and 5,341 indicate they have intentions of going to a college or university. Of the number, the University of Wisconsin will get the most students, 1,152. Lawrence college is second with 256, and Marquette university third with 225.

Potential enrollment in other Badger colleges is: Beloit, 27; Carroll, 61; and Ripon, 70. Milton college will get 23 seniors; and Northland 13.

The survey also shows that 132 students plan to go to Eau Claire State Teachers college, 206 to La Crosse, 121 to Milwaukee, 126 to Oshkosh, 142 to Platteville, 111 to Superior, 166 to Stevens Point and 66 to Stout Institute.

There were 3,612 students undecided on where they would go to school, and 1,136 were going to no school. Three hundred sixty chose out of state schools, 473 will attend county training schools and 658 business colleges. Five hundred twenty-two girls plan to attend nurses training schools.

MANY PICK TEACHING

A majority of students who made a choice of profession or vocation picked teaching, the survey shows. One thousand, nine hundred forty-nine students want to become teachers. Stenography holds second interest, 1,085 students picking that occupation, while 1,214 students were undecided.

Of the remaining occupations, 874 girls will take up nursing, 513 boys want to become engineers, and 397 have intentions of becoming aviators.

Students checking other occupations and vocations follow: Accountants, 166; agriculturist, 167; architect, 88; artist, 85; auto mechanic, 133; beautician, 221; bookkeeper, 209; builder, 19; business man, 247; chemist, 93; commercial artist, 93; dentist, 43; dietitian, 73; doctor, 101; draftsman, 71; dramatic artist, 60; dressmaker, 37; electrician, 209; farmer, 103.

CHECK IS ASKED ON DAM CONSTRUCTION

Request Is Made of Railroad Commission by Conservation Group

Lafayette — (AP) — The state conservation commission, in session here Saturday requested the state railroad commission to prohibit erection of any more dams until it can be determined if they interfere with the natural passage of fish up and down stream.

In a resolution unanimously adopted by the commission at its morning session, the fact is cited that the state now maintains 27 fish hatcheries and rearing ponds, fish are distributed from them for the benefit and enjoyment of the people and "millions of fish are annually destroyed by power companies operating dams and reservoirs on streams of the state."

The full right of the people to benefit in food values and in the enjoyment of fishing is denied by this wholesale destruction of fish," the resolution said. "It is suggested by the power companies that these dams cannot be operated economically and profitably if their schedules or operations are interfered with. The railroad commission contemplates issuing an order establishing rules in the hope of preventing this wholesale fish destruction, but it is problematical whether such rules will prevent destruction of fish life in the absence of actual investigation and demonstration."

The resolution stated that applications for construction of additional dams, reservoirs and power plants over public streams are now under consideration, and declared the commissioner's "respectful protest against erection of any more . . . until it has been definitely demonstrated that such dams can and will be operated without the wholesale destruction of fish."

RECOMMEND PASSAGE OF CHILDREN'S CODE

Madison — (AP) — The Senate's committee on education and public welfare has recommended that the Children's code bill, already approved by the Assembly, be passed by the Senate. On the committee is Senator Ben Gettelman, an avowed opponent of the bill as originally presented to the Assembly.

The committee's recommendation is taken to mean that certain features of the measure which were held objectionable have been removed from the bill.

The electric street railways during the past year carried 15,000,000 riders on their cars and buses, this being more than seven times the population of the entire world.

Talks To Parents

POOR APPETITES
BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

The children of the poor eat and eat heartily. But among those who have enough and to spare the problem of their children's poor appetites is a frequent and serious one. Nothing is more familiar to the child specialist than the complaint: "My child simply won't eat. What shall I do?"

Today the average mother knows so much about diet and calories that children no longer suffer from the digestive disturbances that were so common 20 years ago. Today mothers talk not of "weak stomachs," but of "lack of interest in eating."

In most cases the reason for poor appetite is found to be psychological rather than physical. The psychological causes are so many and often so subtle that it would take a volume adequately to discuss them.

Some of the conditions which make for poor appetite are these. Oversolicitude on the part of mother or nurse, too much talk before eating, forced feeding, nagging about manners and discipline across the dinner table, servings so large as to be discouraging.

It is obvious that it is easy to cultivate poor appetite and the technique for cultivating a good one is difficult only because it runs counter to many of our natural impulses.

Because we are worried about our children's poor appetites it is hard to prepare a properly detached, nonchalant air in serving their food. We are tempted to urge, coax and coerce. We bribe or offer a sort of cabaret entertainment if only our naughty one will condescend to swallow some carrots or cereal.

The remedy is so simple it seems a pity that it is not universally applied.

A Message to Underweight Men and Women

The one supremely good health building tonic that is also the one great weight producer known to modern science the country over is McCoy's Tablets.

They build flesh where flesh is needed—sunken cheeks, neck and chest—and many a man and woman, skinny and scrawny have thanked McCoy's after a few weeks treatment for the decided improvement in looks and figure.

Many times the increase in weight is astonishing—one exceedingly thin woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days. McCoy's takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

FARM SCHOOL STUDENTS INCREASE IN RUSSIA

Madison — (AP) — Agricultural Russia is becoming scientifically minded since the revolution in 1917 is farm school attendance is proof.

According to members of the faculty of Timiriazeff academy in Moscow, who visited the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture to study administrative methods, since Russia became a republic, enrollment in the academy, which is an agricultural school, has increased.

The visitors from the Soviet republic were Professors M. M. Wolf, N. A. Butanenko and B. N. Lubanenko.

Discussing farm papers of their native land, they said the government journal, a dairy farm publication, circulates 1,300,000. Besides, in each of the eight districts of the station, a daily farm paper is published, as well as in the 85 states of Russia.

Pure seed grains, Russia's most famous agriculture product, are distributed under a new system.

According to Prof. Wolf, before the world war the good seed grains were exported to other countries, but under the republican government distribution is to native farmers. As a result, he said, increased yields have been general over the entire country.

Discussing the present economic trend in Russia, Prof. Wolf said electricity is coming into use on the farms and a movement is now nearing completion to electrify every house in all Russian villages.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah—Leslie Selsbrenner has arrived from Niagara Falls, N. Y., to join his family at the Selsbrenner home on Lake Winnebago. Several social gatherings have been held for Mrs. Selsbrenner during her stay here, one a supper at River-view club given by Mrs. John Selsbrenner, another a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bergstrom at their home last Friday evening, and one by Mrs. James Bergstrom at her home the latter part of the week. Other parties which are being arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Selsbrenner include a dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Strange, a dinner by Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Jenkins of Appleton, and a luncheon at Riverview club by Mrs. Paul Strange and Mrs. D. W. Bergstrom.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barry of Milwaukee, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert during the last week, and Miss Ottilia Holstein of Chicago, who has been a guest of Mrs. James Bergstrom, have been guests at several parties here and at Riverview Country club during the last few days. Miss Holstein won the putting contest at the women's weekly golf tournament at Riverview. Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Barry won the golf prizes at the Selsbrenner party Tuesday evening.

Licenses to marry have been granted by George Manne, Winnebago clerk to Howard Hoyman and Edith Palmer, both of Neenah, and Joseph A. Geiger and Mary Wicinski, also of Neenah. The weddings will occur this week.

A group of 50 Knights of Pythias members and their families held their annual outing Sunday at Menominee park, Oshkosh. A dinner was served on the lawn at noon.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. George A. Whiting for a luncheon followed by bridge to be given Aug. 25 at Lawsonia, Green Lake.

MOTORIST ARRESTED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Neenah—Earl Crowsbeck of Chicago and Ernest Crowsbeck of Oshkosh were arrested Sunday by county motorcycle officer Irving Stilt, the former on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, the latter on a charge of driving a car while in an intoxicated condition. Both will appear in court at Oshkosh to answer to the charges.

ESTIMATE SPENGLER ESTATE OVER $40,000

Neenah—A petition presenting the will of William H. Spengler of Neenah has been filed in Winnebago court. The value of the personal property is estimated at $40,000. There also is real estate yielding an annual income of $600.

Final judgment also has been made on the estate of Mrs. Rosetta Eisenach of the town of Menasha, in which there was a residue of $12,137.44 besides real estate. The property goes to five children, Mrs. Edith Jorgensen, Otto Eisenach, Robert Eisenach, Charles Eisenach and Mrs. Freda Peters.

There was a residue of $6,411.14 and real estate of Carl Wege, Neenah, in whose will the final judgment has been made. The real estate goes to a daughter, Mrs. Augusta McCravy, Neenah and the rest of the property is divided among the six other children.

POLICE ARREST 6 DURING WEEKEND

Four Motorists Are Stopped for Alleged Traffic Violations

Neenah—Six arrests were made over the weekend by the police department, four of which were for traffic violations. Howard Olson of Winchester paid a fine of $10 and costs for reckless driving on Main street Saturday evening. Ernest Rippe of Oshkosh will appear at 7 o'clock Monday evening to answer a charge of driving his car without proper brakes; Fred Johnson, Menasha, will appear at 7 o'clock Monday night to answer to a charge of passing through traffic lights at Commercial and Wisconsin; Frank Geiger, route 4, was arrested for driving a car without the necessary license. He will appear Monday afternoon. Vincent Huebel, transient was arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge. He was fined $10 and costs or sentenced to 10 days at Winnebago jail. Up to noon he had not secured the funds. The police were called to the William Reddin home Sunday night where Mr. Reddin was reported to be creating a disturbance. No decision has been made as to the disposition of the case.

SOFTBALL TEAMS TO PLAY TUESDAY NIGHT

Neenah—The National league softball teams will play the weekly games Tuesday evening, with Neenah Mill vs. Jersid Knits and Lieber Lumber company vs. Hardwood Products at Columbia park diamonds, and Neenah Paper company and American Legion at Doty park diamond.

The American league will play Wednesday evening with Wisconsin Michigan-Power and Light team vs. Kimberly-Clarks and Wisconsin Telephone company vs. Bergstrom. Papers at Columbia park diamonds and Butchers and Grocers at Doty park diamond.

BUSINESSMEN GOING TO HEARING ON PARK

Neenah—A group of business men is planning to go to Madison Tuesday to attend the hearing to be conducted by a committee of the state legislature on the bill appropriating funds for the purchase of High Cliff for a state park. The delegation will appear in favor of the bill. The late ex-mayor Jules H. Denhardt was instrumental in securing this piece of high land on the east shore of Lake Winnebago, directly across the lake from Neenah, for a state park, when he secured options on the property and offered it to the state. Other cities in the vicinity are to send delegations to the capitol city in an effort to further the project.

TWIN CITY DEATHS

ARTHUR HAEFS

Menasha—The body of Arthur Haefs was removed from the funeral home of the Menasha Furniture Co. to the family home in Navarino Saturday. The funeral will take place at 1 o'clock Tuesday from the Lutheran church in Navarino. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

ALLEN E. KEVILLE

TERRA COTTA FOR BRIDGE SCORCHED

Menasha—Although workmen are busily securing pieces of terra cotta which were scorched when fire raced through the straw in which they were banked near the Tayco-st bridge it is doubtful, according to the foremen, if the discoloring can be removed. The fire started about ten o'clock Sunday morning, probably through a cigarette carelessly thrown into the straw. About 75 pieces of stone were scorched.

A representative from the Selmar Terra Cotta company of Milwaukee is expected today to estimate the loss.

PROPOSE TO PAVE COUNTY TRUNK "G"

Highway Committee to Recommend Project to County Board

Neenah—County Trunk G, short route from Neenah to Winnebago, connecting two principal arteries of travel, was the principal topic discussed Saturday morning at the meeting of the county road committee at the court house at Oshkosh. The committee met to discuss routine business and an informal discussion on paving projects in the county. At a previous meeting the committee went on record favoring a 20-foot concrete highway on county trunk G. It decided to recommend to the board of supervisors at its next meeting that the paving be included in the highway budget for 1930. A discussion resulted as to the material to be used. Attorney Frank B. Keef asked that a material more economical than concrete be used. Merritt White declared the road on that highway would not stand up under anything but concrete. The question of the railroad grade crossing overhead came and the committee decided to await action from the state highway commission. Mr. White was named to confer with the highway commission.

MENASHA ASKS BIDS FOR BUILDING TOWER

Want Proposals to Erect Structure to Hold 500,000 Gallons of Water

Menasha—The city is advertising bids for a foundation of the new water tower which is to be built at the corner of Manitowoc and Second sts. The tower will hold a half million gallons.

The most water, according to A. A. Heckrodt, city treasurer, is used during the months of September, October and November and December. The peak pumping of water for one day was three and a half million gallons.

Menasha is reputed to have the purest drinking water in Wisconsin.

DIPLOMACY DREW LAUGHLIN FROM STEEL INDUSTRY

Man Urged for Appointment to Rome Has Served in Many Embassies

Pittsburg, Pa.—(AP)—Diplomacy as a career drew Irwin Laughlin from the steel mills of his forebears at the age of 32.

For a quarter of a century he served in American embassies and legations in virtually every important nation in Europe and his career will be climaxed with appointment as American ambassador to Italy if President Hoover takes the formal recommendation of Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania.

Born with the benefit of wealth, Mr. Laughlin by past achievements and personal presence fits the picture of a diplomat as that of a cultured cosmopolitan.

The clubs of Paris and London know him as well as those of Washington or New York. He always has taken a leading part in the civic and social life of Pittsburg.

Yale is Mr. Laughlin's alma mater and he earned a bachelor of arts degree there at the age of 23. He was born in Pittsburg April 26, 1871.

At the outset, he planned to follow in the footsteps of his family and enter the steel industry.

He took a secondary position in the Jones and Laughlin Corporation at Pittsburg in 1894 and became treasurer of the corporation in six years.

He resigned that post in 1903 to make his first contact with the American diplomatic service, becoming private secretary to the American minister in Japan. Steel as a life interest for him faded and he turned his thoughts to diplomacy.

From 1903 to 1910 Mr. Laughlin served successfully in American embassies and legations in Japan, Siam, China, Russia, Greece, Montenegro, France, Turkey, England and Germany. He has been secretary of legation, consul general, embassy secretary, charge d'affaires, counselor, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary.

Granted an extended leave of absence in 1919 while stationed in London, Mr. Laughlin in 1921 served as secretary to Henry Cabot Lodge in the conference for the limitation of armaments.

His leave, however, was short, for in 1924 President Coolidge sent him to Greece as envoy. There he remained for two years, retiring in 1926 because of illness in his family and he has been "at liberty" since.

Mr. Laughlin married in 1912 and the Laughlins have two children, Alexander and Gertrude.

He has been a life-long republican.

JUNIOR YACHT RACES POSTPONED FOR WEEK

Neenah—The Junior yacht races scheduled for Saturday afternoon were postponed on account of rough water. The races will be sailed next Saturday afternoon under supervision of the Neenah Nodaway Yacht club.

Going to Rome?

FARM YOUTH FATALLY HURT BY HAY FORK

Dodgeville—(AP)—His abdomen pierced by a harpoon hayfork, La Verne Peterson, 15, displayed unusual courage, before he died in a hospital here yesterday.

Young Peterson was helping at the Elma Flora farm when the fork broke. With the fork in his arm he attempted to slide down the day to the floor. One of the prongs struck a beam and the other pierced his abdomen. Calmly he held the lever which would have permitted the fork to spread and withdrew the prong.

QUICK HOUSE VOTE SEEN ON FRENCH DEBT

Deputies Give Approval to Ratification—Send It to French Senate

Washington—(AP)—French ratification of the Mellon-Berenger war debt agreement, now confidently predicted is expected to receive prompt attention in the house after it reassembles late in September.

Participation of the agreement probably will be aided to the special session program of congress if, as indicated, the French senate agrees with the action of the chamber of deputies. Both chambers of congress will have to act on it before it can be made finally effective, but meanwhile preparations are being made to postpone the maturity date of the $100,000,000 war supplies debt, which falls due Aug. 1 but is provided for in the general $4,025,000,000 agreement.

The house two years ago ratified the general agreement, under which all of France's war and post-war obligations to the United States are lumped together for payment over a period of 63 years, but the senate declined to act pending French ratification and the subsequent inauguration of a new congress has nullified the approval voted at that time.

Despite some determined opposition to the agreement in congress, the contention that it does not provide for adequate payments to the United States, Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, and other leaders expect that little difficulty will be encountered in bringing about its ratification. The last of the debt settlements arranged between the United States and the associated powers it helped to finance during the World war, the agreement is similar to those negotiated with the other nations, all of which have been ratified.

APPROVE RECORDS

Paris—(AP)—Ratification of the debt records, particularly that with America, today was in the hands of the French senate, the chamber of deputies early Sunday morning having given its grudging approval the vote on that with United States was 300 to 292.

It was believed today and tomorrow would be sufficient for consideration of the bill, and its probably accompanying resolution of reservation in the calmer atmosphere of the upper house, and that ratification would follow without further difficulty for the government of Raymond Poincare, premier.

The reservations resolution will not be transmitted from the chamber to the senate but it was regarded as likely the next adopted by the lower house would be taken up by the senators so that it would express not only the sentiments of the chamber but of parliament as a whole.

Political circles expected little opposition to the bills and believed the government's majority would be considered larger than the eight votes received in the chamber. It was pointed out that the senators, having no constituencies to serve, are not so moved by purely partisan considerations.

RENEW SUPPLY OF MEDICINAL WHISKY

Five or Six Distilleries Will Get Permission to Resume Production

Washington—(AP)—Five or six distilleries will be given permission by the prohibition bureau in the near future to resume the production of whisky in the United States to replenish medical supplies.

In making that announcement, Commissioner Doran said the nation's government's guarded supply of medicinal whisky had dwindled since distilling was halted under the eighteenth amendment to 9,549,071 gallons.

About 1,500,000 gallons were withdrawn from this stock each year and, taking probable evaporation into consideration, the total is considered sufficient to meet legal requirements for only five years.

About 2,000,000 gallons, the commissioner announced, will be produced next year so that the requirement for four year aging can be complied with and, allowing for evaporation of 400,000 gallons, provide a full year's supply in storage in 1934.

The distilleries will resume operation under government supervision and will be allowed to produce about 1,400,000 gallons of Bourbon and 600,000 gallons of rye whisky next year. It is estimated that about one year's supply will be on hand when the new stock is ready for sale.

The commissioner regards recent suggestions that large amounts of the present supply are of questionable quality as having little foundation. Not more than 1,000 of the 300,000 barrels in the bonded warehouses, he believes, can be classed as questionable.

ESCAPED CONVICT IS NABBED IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Sought by Pennsylvania police since July 10, 1924, when he escaped from the Pottsville, Pa. penitentiary, Walter Kervitski, alias Walter Nester, was arrested here Sunday.

FATHER, SON FIGHT; FORMER IS KILLED

Chicago—(AP)—Aleck and Edward Jeschke, father and son, fought last night over who was to have the last drink from a bottle of whisky. The father was killed by a blow from the son's fist, and the younger man was arrested. Four other children of Aleck Jeschke saw the fight.

Ready for 5,000-mile Hop

Lieutenant Harold Bromley, soon to undertake a lone nonstop flight across the Pacific ocean from Tacoma to Tokio, is shown above with the map of his route. He hopes to make the trip in 35 hours. He is shown here with a bubble sextant with which he can ascertain his position in a few seconds. Below is his open cockpit plane.

LONE PILOT PLANS NON-STOP FLIGHT ACROSS PACIFIC

Expects to Go from Tacoma to Tokio in 35 Hours, Pilot Says

EDITOR'S NOTE. Lieut. Harold Bromley, 29-year-old Canadian war veteran, has written for Post-Crescent and NEA Service his own story of his plans for a non-stop flight from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokio, Japan, at an early date. Tacoma business men are backing the flight.

BY LIEUT. HAROLD BROMLEY
Burbank, Cal.—Scientific and mechanical progress of the last two years have made it possible for a pilot to undertake a longer non-stop flight than could have been possible in 1927 when Lindbergh made his lone flight across the Atlantic. It is with the assurance that my mechanical and navigational problems have been solved that I will hop off in a few weeks from Tacoma, Wash., for Tokio, Japan—4762 miles west.

I am taking every safety provision possible in order that no element of the flight will be left to chance. These take from not only in frequent inspections of the plane during its final assembly, but also in careful consideration of the weather and preparations to carry radio apparatus that will function under any conditions.

IN OPEN COCKPIT
My plane will be a special low-wing Lockheed. I will sit near the tail in an open cockpit. I decided on a low-wing job for several reasons, one of the most important being the added lift it will give when taking off with my heavy load.

The plane will be powered with a Wasp 425-horsepower engine. This engine is "super-inspected." That means every bit of metal in the motor has been microscopically examined and that no flaws will develop in it during the flight. In fact, the engine was twice super-inspected. Following the first it was torn down and again completely inspected with microscopes.

Prior to taking off the plane will be progressively loaded and tested from dry lake beds near here. On each take-off the length of run and time will be measured, wind direction and altitude being taken into consideration.

Thus we can determine exactly what load the plane can lift at Seattle under given conditions. At the final take-off the plane will start down a 70-foot incline and skim along a 4500-foot surfaced runway. The first 2000 feet will be specially surfaced to guard against imperfections.

At the end of the 4500-foot runway an additional 1000 feet will be cleared to permit a further run before I come to a row of trees 50 feet high.

WILL FLY ALONE
In considering the Tacoma-Tokio flight I decided to fly alone when I learned I could use the system of navigation devised by Commodore P. H. Weems of the navy. In practice I have determined my position at night in 45 seconds.

Thus I can handle the bubble sextant and do my calculating with one hand while flying the ship with the other.

When I take off the plane will have in her tanks approximately 355 gallons of gasoline and 30 gallons of oil. With the special N. A. C. A. cowling, the plane should cruise at least 150 miles an hour.

On that basis and assuming fairly favorable flying weather the flight should be completed in not more than 35 hours, of which only three and one-half hours will be flown in darkness.

I will follow the great circle route along the Aleutian chain of islands. This will carry me near five Russian and American radio stations. From the stations and nearby ships I can get frequent reports of weather ahead. I plan also to send my position every hour and give information about my flying speed and

INJUNCTION KEEPS U. S. SOUND FILMS OFF GERMAN SCREEN

Berlin—(AP)—American sound films disappeared from German motion picture theaters today, probably for one to two years, in consequence of a court decision granting a permanent injunction against the use of Western Electric reproducing apparatus and favoring the so-called United European Front Tone Film business and Klang Film Tobias combine.

The Americans took prompt action after the court's decision Saturday by sending mechanics to cut off Western Electric apparatus in all theaters where it was being used thus forcing the return of box office money for the crowded weekend performances.

Some of the German press calls the result "catastrophic" for the German movie-going public. Several well-known pictures are closing down while several others will continue as silent films. The American interests said that they could not permit the use of their machinery a moment after the court decision since violation of an injunction is a criminal offense in Germany.

Final decision on a patent infringement suit now pending between Klang Film-Tobias and Warner Brothers-Western Electric is not expected before one or two years when the case comes up for trial.

general condition. If by chance I should be forced down, I will have a rubber life raft, tinned food and a very pistol which shoots colored signal flares.

Within my knowledge this will be the first flight in which a single individual flies the plane and navigates by celestial observation.

The take-off is planned for early morning. During nearly all the flight I shall be not far from land. The longest water jump west of Alaska is about 1200 miles. Even here my maximum distance from land will be 600 miles.

Even though some may look on the flight as a "stunt" I consider it more in the light of helping to prove the strength and durability of airplanes and engines.

These flights also help to further friendly international relations. They certainly bring shores of distant nations closer to our own frontiers. Through such long distance flights the world constantly grows smaller.

FINANCE EXPERTS BALANCE CAR TAX AGAINST GAS TAX

Attempt to Figure How Far Cars Must Run to Pay Same Amount

Madison—(AP)—With the legislature apparently about to repeal the personal property tax on automobiles, and substitute for it an additional 1 cent gasoline tax, the question before finance officers of the states is—how many miles will a car have to travel before it pays in additional fuel tax the same amount as charged under the personal property tax?

The problem is made complex by the varying valuations of cars, and the mileage per gallon each makes.

Under the present arrangement, each machine is assessed .0235 (23 1/2 mills) for each dollar valuation. If the car is valued at $500, its owner pays $11.75 personal property tax.

If the same machine can travel 15 miles on a gallon of gasoline, its fuel tax for 15 miles would be 1 cent. Before its owners additional fuel amounts to $11.75 the car would have to travel 17,525 miles.

The owner of a cheap car would pay enough fuel tax to reach the amount of his personal property tax in fewer miles than would the owner of a more expensive car. A machine valued at $100 pays $2.35 personal property tax. Assuming it makes 15 miles a gallon, its owner would pay $2.35 in additional 1 cent fuel tax when it had gone 3,415 miles.

A car valued at $1,000 pays $23.50 tax. It will have to travel 35,250 miles before it consumes enough gallons of gasoline with a 1 cent tax to equal the $23.50.

Proponents of the bill repealing the personal property tax contend many owners escape the tax, but that all will pay if it is collected on each gallon of gasoline.

Repeal of the personal property tax has been voted by the Senate, and has yet to be acted upon by the Assembly. The lower house, meanwhile, has approved a 3 cent gasoline tax which provides the extra cent shall be used for highway purposes. If both bills pass and are signed by the Governor, the automobile user will pay a tax of 4 cents a gallon on the gasoline he uses, 1 cent additional to offset the personal property tax, and the other additional cent to go for highways.

BOA CONSTRICTOR SWALLOWS ARMY BLANKET AT ZOO

Cincinnati—(AP)—A boa constrictor with an army blanket in its vitals drew the services of 11 men at the Zoological gardens here as it lay in evident pain, but the snake still held the blanket today with all effort to remove it a failure.

A. A. Stephan, general manager of the zoo, immersed the 24-foot snake in an alligator tank, placed a hood over its head, and attempted with the aid of 10 men to work the blanket out. That failing, Stephan inserted into the snake a tube with a metal hook inside, but was unable to catch the blanket and pull it out. A half gallon of oil then was poured into the snake to relieve it. The blanket caught in the serpent's fangs Friday as it struck at a pigeon, and was swallowed with the bird.

J. H. Hoe, carnival operator, paid $1,000 for the boa a few weeks ago, he said.

THINGS A COOK SHOULD KNOW

Let These Cookery Secrets Make Foods Taste Better

Sugar may be described as the partly understood food. Everyone knows that sweets are valuable energy foods, but sugar's supreme service to good cookery is as a flavorer.

Add a dash of sugar to cereal while it is being cooked and you will discover what seems to be an entirely new flavor. Flavors of cereal are very delicate. The dash of sugar develops them so that they can be tasted.

A little sugar brings out the natural flavors of fruits when stewed, making them delicious. A little sugar softens the fruit acids of the citrus fruits and of berries.

Sugar demonstrates its supreme condimental power when a dash of it is added to vegetables when they are cooking (preferably in little water). This use of sugar makes these essential foods delightful to the taste.

Small amounts of sugar added to chopped beef, pot-roasts, stews, ragouts and other inexpensive dishes makes the finished product richer in flavor and more appetizing in appearance.

A little sugar distinctly improves both the flavor and color of almost every sauce or gravy served with meat, especially if made from the juices of the meat.

Think of sugar as a flavorer. Use it to make the balanced meal enjoyable to eat. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

SAKOLOSKY GIVES APPLETON 8 HITS AND WINS EASILY

Uggie Brandt's Fords took a weekend jaunt into northern and central Wisconsin and returned to Appleton Sunday night with a win and a defeat for their troubles.

Saturday afternoon the squad met Wausau at Wausau and went back to the hotel with a 6 and 1 victory. Sunday afternoon the boys rattled down to Wisconsin Rapids and just before they wanted to win the worst way and give the gathering of Appleton fans who were watching them something to talk about, they lost 3 and 1.

Up around the Rapids they'll tell you that the central Wisconsin club used its second string hurler, Sakolsky, to beat the Fords, but little do they know what a tanning the Appleton club gives a left handed tosser like the first string hurler, Specs Eastling.

Sunday's defeat may be attributed in a way to Saturday's victory. Saturday the boys faced a slow ball tosser and Sunday it was the opposite with the result that only four safe bingles were registered.

And while the defeat rankled the boys they aren't so bad off with the flock of upsets in the remaining games in the loop. The teams along the middle in the league standings are all bunched and a game one way or the other don't make so terribly much difference.

Lefty Ritten tossed his slants at the Rapids and they counted eight hits, only four of them being bunched, two in the third inning and two in the fifth. The game was Lefty's first full contest since returning to the club and if his mates had been hitting he'd have won.

RAPIDS SCORES FIRST

The Rapids counted first in Sunday's league game because a lapse of memory on the part of a couple of members of the Appleton club, M. Huber was up first and drew a walk. He jaunted to second on a sacrifice and then Brandt came to bat, a fly, slow moving outfielder but a mighty good stickler.

Brandt drove the ball through the pitching box, Huber going to third and starting for home plate to Ritten. Huber dropped the ball Brandt scored. Appleton got back the run in the second inning, however, Dave Crowe struck a triple and scoring when Smiley Nicodem doubled. And that ended the scoring for the Fords.

The third inning saw the Rapids get another run, M. Huber driving a triple over Crowe's head and scoring when Shaulaub drove one just out of Sonny Torrow's reach. Their last counter came in the eighth inning when a couple errors and a fielder's choice that should have retired the side was called a safe play by the base umpire.

FORDS THREATEN

Appleton threatened in the ninth inning after L. Murphy had singled through short and Sonny Torrow struck out. Baldy Eggert came to the plate and connected with one of Sakolsky's slants that would have been a home run in most any park in the league. But at the Rapids the fence is about three blocks from the home plate and Ritten, the left fielder, center fielder behind the bat crack and then sprinted for the far regions catching the ball on the run and killings off the Ford's chances to count. Had the ball landed fair two runs would have tallied because Eggert was almost to second base before the pellet was caught.

Saturday's game at Wausau wasn't much of a battle, the Fords starting slow and winding up the encounter with the ninth with a home run by Leo Murphy. It took the Fords four innings to get accustomed to McQuillan's slow tosses but once they did there wasn't much left to do but wait the end of the game.

Wausau counted first in the first inning when it got two hits off Jimmie Murphy which turned out to be all they counted off the big fellow in the five innings he toiled. Sakolsky took up the burden in the sixth inning and he had a big time allowing no runs and fanning four batters.

The first tally for the Fords came in the fourth inning, Hillman and Torrow scoring. Two more runs were registered in the sixth by Eggert and Crowe and two more in the ninth by Hillman and Murphy.

GRIMES HURT; WON'T PITCH FOR 2 WEEKS

New York (AP)—Burleigh Grimes, ace of the Pittsburgh Pirates, pitched the ninth with a home run by Leo Murphy. It took the Fords four innings to get accustomed to McQuillan's slow tosses but once they did there wasn't much left to do but wait the end of the game.

Burleigh Grimes And Bush Have Great Records

BY JOHN R. FOSTER Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—Guy Bush of the Chicago Nationals is the major league pitcher who has won more than ten games and has not lost more than one up to date. Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh was running the Cub pitcher a corkscrew race until a two-bagger put in at the right spot by one of the Boston players, sent Grimes to the bench with his second defeat of the year on July 17.

He can stand it. A pitcher who has done the sterling work that he has performed for the Pittsburgh club in 1928 and 1929 can stand many a buffet before he can be put on the pensioners' roll.

It is not strange that a pitcher on the Chicago Nationals and another on the Pittsburgh team should be leading the National league race because both teams entered the fight in fine trim for it. It is only necessary to state again that the Pittsburgh team was badly undermanned by most of those who essayed to venture upon championship predictions. The quality was there.

Not more than one or two had been able to discover that Dick Bartell is one of the best kids unearthed in baseball.

His confidence in his skill has been worth while because he has kept the Pirates in the race by excellent work and he has been abetted by Grimes with his good pitching. It must also be taken into consideration that Pittsburgh today has one of the nicest outfields in baseball.

"If only Adam Comorosky would play ball for me as he played for Indianapolis," said Donie Bush last March, "I wouldn't have a worry after Paul Waner signs his contract. In Indianapolis Comorosky seemed to be one of the best young outfielders in baseball and when he got to Pittsburgh, either he became afraid of the fence, or the crowd, or of his own skill and he didn't do the things he would like to see him do."

Comorosky has at last come through. He is batting in major company in the American association but when he got into the National league he seemed to feel the weight of major league responsibility and overplayed himself. He lost his job.

Grimes has made a record for two years on the Pittsburgh club that is one of the best veteran pitching records in National league annals. Last year he won 25 games and lost 14. He put his shoulder under the Pittsburgh club when it was being carried down by a weight of woe and losing games in 1928 and pitched the team into the upper balcony. Before the race was over he had made both New York and St. Louis fear Pittsburgh to such an extent that the managers of both teams worried more about the snorting Pirates than they did about the Cubs. The Chicago team they thought would have its last growl but they didn't know how to figure Pittsburgh because that team had been doing all sorts of unexpected things.

Grimes' record of 1928, his 23 games won and 15 lost with his record at the present time, 15 games won and two lost in 1929 and the result is something that will establish his reputation in history for all time to come.

In the American league there is only one pitcher of parallel strength. Lefty Grove of Philadelphia has won 15 games and lost two. Of the fifteen he took six from Boston.

George Walsh, also of the Athletics ran Grover a stiff race for a while. The western trip has not been very good for Walsh and he shines less brilliantly. However, present indications are that he will be pitching in the world series.

WOMEN TRACK STARS COMPETE SATURDAY

Championships in 11 Events Will Be Decided at Tournament

Chicago (AP)—Another "battle of the century," a test for sprint champions, will be held Saturday. Not for Simpson, Toland, Bracey, et al, but for the outstanding women sprinters of the country who will fight it out in the Women's National A. U. championships at Soldier Field.

Headed by Betty Robinson of the Illinois Women's A. C. winner of the 100 meters in the 1928 Olympic games, a field of 25 girls stars has been entered for the event. Olive Hasenut of Boston, Katherine McGuire of St. Louis, and three New Yorkers, Jessie Cross, Carrie Jansen and Mary Washburn, all members of the Olympic team, will race against the champion, Eleanor Ess of Patterson, N. J. Metropolitan A. U. titleholder in the event also will compete.

The south will have two threats in the race, Margaret Whitcomb, of Dallas, Tex., holder of the southern A. U. championship, and Olive Kruger of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Several other members of the Olympic team have sent in entries. Jean Shirley of the Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia, holder of the women's high jump record, is entered, and will encounter competition from Miss Maguire who held the record before the Philadelphia girl shattered it last winter.

Championships will be decided in 11 events, all to be held Saturday unless entries necessitate preliminaries.

ATHLETICS LOSE TO ASKEATON IN LATE INNINGS, 6-3

Winners Now Hold Top Position in Little Fox Baseball League

Askeaton now holds the top rung in the Little Fox league as the result of its 6 and 3 victory over Appleton Athletics, Sunday afternoon at Interlake park.

Clarence Stoffel was the victim of the defeat, although he tossed good ball until the seventh when the winners got to him for safe blows when needed most. Until the seventh inning Stoffel allowed but three hits. Teteak pitched for Askeaton and gave 8 hits fanning 14 Appleton batsmen.

The Athletics scored in the first inning when Herb singled, stole second and third and scored when the Askeaton catcher threw to second to get Boyle. The South Siders scored again in the fourth inning when Schultz beat out a bunt and was advanced a base by E. Verbrick. He scored when Horn and Green singled and was forced at second by Herb. The latter then stole second and Boyle was safe on an error. Brugeman singled and then E. Verbrick sent Herb home on a single.

Askeaton scored three times in the seventh on a walk, two hits, and an error and got another run in the eighth on two more hits and an error. The last two rallies were counted in the eighth on another two hits and an infield out.

DOC CRANDALL RETURNS TO LOS ANGELES CLUB

Los Angeles (AP)—Otis "Doc" Crandall, veteran spitball pitcher, has rejoined the Los Angeles club, Pacific coast baseball league, of which he was a mainstay for more than ten years, until the season of 1927.

Crandall was given his release in 1927 so that he could become part owner, with Art Griggs, of the Wichita club of the Western league. He sold out his Wichita interests to Griggs in midseason of that year, and joined the Sacramento club of the coast league. The veteran was released by Sacramento a week ago.

Crandall at one time pitched for the New York Giants, coming to the National league from the "bush" leagues. He then began his decade of service with the Los Angeles club.

Loughran Has Chance In Heavyweight Division

BY JOHN J. ROMANO Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—Tommy Loughran retained his light-heavyweight title by knocking the plodding effort of James J. Braddock and in so doing qualified as a threat against the beefier boys who gambol in the heavyweight division. Loughran fooled a small but smart audience at the Yankee stadium Thursday evening by handling Braddock as he pleased and rolled up a convincing margin of points to insure victory.

Loughran was weakened by the weight he had to make, 174 pounds. Yet he was smart enough to bull his younger, stronger foe so that before the fight was over it was Braddock the fighter who was being punished. Loughran just coasted along trying to feel out his man and was on the eye by one of Braddock's husky swings and the blood poured out of the wound. Instead of being disheartened Loughran settled down to work and managed to outscore Braddock with long lefts until the seventh when he mixed freely with the hard-hitting Jerseyman and was staggered by a round-house right swing. That was the sum total of Braddock's damage and thereafter Loughran went along judging his own pace and made his opponent look slow and bewildered in comparison with the agile stepping Loughran.

The fight was dull in spots. The crowd bore with efforts of the fighters. They were waiting for the punch Braddock was expected to put over. Instead of Braddock doing the punching, however, he walked in telegraphing his right so that Loughran was able to step away and come back with a stinging right uppercut.

In two rounds the light hitting champion actually staggered his opponent. In doing Loughran gave the impression that he had the extra weight he could cope successfully against any of the big boys who are now on parade.

CLINTONVILLE WINS FROM WITTENBERG, 6-3

Clintonville — Clintonville retained its post at the top of the Wolf River valley league Sunday after noon by beating Wittenberg here, 6 and 3. Shawano and Marion kept their places in the standings, the former beating Bowler 5 and 3, the latter trimming Gresham 5 and 4. Neopit chalked up a win in the remaining game getting a 5 to 1 decision over Tigerton.

The Clintonville Booster team beat Mattoon, 10 and 4.

MILWAUKEE BREWS WIN TWICE SUNDAY

Kansas City Cops Two and Loses One in Series With Columbus

BY WILLIAM A. WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Three games in two days against Columbus Senators have not damaged Kansas City's lead in the American association, the Columbus threat having been capable of but one victory.

While the Blues were taking two out of three from the Senators over the week-end, St. Paul kept pace by accomplishing a similar task against Louisville, leaving Kansas City still five and one-half games out in front.

Kansas City trimmed the senators, 9 to 4 Saturday, and broke even in a doubleheader Sunday. George Murray quelled the Columbus sluggers in the opener, permitting but three hits as the Blues won by 5 to 1. Columbus got to Pea Ridge Day in the second for four runs in the eighth inning to win 5 to 3. Winters held the Blues to six hits in the twilight contest.

The Saints defeated Louisville 4 to 2 Saturday, but divided a double bill Sunday. The Colonels bunched six hits off four St. Paul hurlers in the opener and won by 9 to 5. Creson and Moss gave the Saints eight safeties, but could not be hit with men on base.

Archibald Campbell scored his seventh straight victory in the second game, when his mates pounded out a 13 to 2 decision. Campbell gave seven hits while Williams was battered for 18.

Indianapolis made it three in a row over the groggy Minneapolis Millers, winning Saturday and taking both games of a doubleheader Sunday. The Indians' margin Saturday was 6 to 2. Minneapolis was unable to do much with Penner or Teachout and went down, 8 to 2 and 7 to 2. Penner held the Millers to six hits in the opener, while Indianapolis hit two former major leaguers, Flint Rhet and Garland Buckeye, for nine. Teachout was even more difficult in the second game, restricting the Millers to five hits. George Dumont and John Brillheart yielded 12 to Indianapolis.

After losing to Toledo on Saturday's engagement, 8 to 5, Dinty Gearin outpitched Doyle and Emil Wingard for the Brewers in the opener for a 4 to 0 victory, and Buvid pitched a six hit blank to win the second 8 to 4.

Red Blankenship, Ed Pfeffer and Hugh McQuillan were the victims of an 11 hit assault by the Brewers.

CANZONERI TO FINISH TRAINING IN CHICAGO

Chicago (AP)—Confident and almost at the peak of condition, Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion who will attempt to knock the lightweight crown from Sammy Mandell's head at Chicago Stadium, Aug. 2, Monday was in camp to finish training.

The challenger arrived Sunday and said he would leave, carrying the lightweight championship with him.

Mandell has been in camp at the Washington Park track for a week, fighting to make the division limit of 135 pounds. Plenty of hard work has brought him down to 133, with one week left in which to whittle off the extra three pounds.

Pirates Win And Cubs Lose; Bruins Tumbled Out Of N. L. Leadership

Dizzy Vance in Rare Form and Fans Ten Members of Wrigley Club

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

ONIE BUSH'S Pittsburgh Pirates have cruised back into the National league lead, displacing the Chicago Cubs whose latest tenure of office lasted just twenty-four hours.

It took two fine pitching performances to reinstate the Pirates to the top of the heap. Remy Kremer, the big Frenchman who has been making a gallant come-back this season, held the New York Giants to five hits as the Corsairs triumphed, 5 to 3, while over in Brooklyn the old Cub nemesis, Dizzy Vance, gave the Bruins five scattered safeties and beat them 3 to 1. The net result was to drop the Cubs back into second place, a game behind Pittsburgh.

Kremer had to be at his best to hand up his twelfth victory of the season. The Pirates got only eight hits but bunched five of them with Fred Leach's muf of a fly ball to score four runs in the fifth. In the home half of the same inning the Giants tallied twice on three hits. All the Pirate hits were made off Larry Benton. The other Giant twirlers, Fitzsimmons, and Mays setting the opposition down in order over the last four innings. The triumph gave Pittsburgh an even break in the series and a record of 11 wins and four losses in the east.

VANCE WHIFFS TEN

Vance struck out ten men in giving the Robins' their first victory of the season over the Cubs. Pat Malone weakened in the seventh and the Robins scored two runs and then added another in the eighth off Charlie Root. The only Cub run came across in the fourth when Rogers Hornsby hit a home run.

The St. Louis Cardinals lost both ends of a double bill with the Boston Braves, 4 to 2 and 4 to 3. Lester Bell drove home all the Braves runs in the first game, three with a home run and the other with a single. Sisler's double with the bases filled in the ninth gave the Braves the second game.

Red Lucas pitched good ball after a shaky start and Cincinnati downed the Phillies 8 to 5.

Over in the American league, the Philadelphia Athletics lengthened their lead over the New York Yankees to 10 1/2 games, beating Detroit 10 to 7 in 11 innings while Cleveland was downing Huggins' men, 6 to 4.

Kyle Graham, a rookie from the Pacific coast league, gave the A's plenty of trouble but they got to him in the eleventh for four runs. The Tigers came back fighting but could score only one run in their half. Bing Miller was the big gun in the Athletic attack, getting five hits, two of them doubles, and driving in three runs.

HOYT IS BEATEN

Waite Hoyt had another off day at Cleveland and the Indians pounded him for 10 hits and all their runs in the first 7 innings. Miller weakened in the latter innings and gave way to Wesley Ferrell, who was effective in the pinches.

The rampaging Chicago White Sox slugged three pitchers for 12 hits to shut out the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 0. Ted Lyons gave the Red Sox only four hits and none got as far as second base.

The St. Louis Browns bunched hits to beat Washington Senators, 5 to 5. Sam Gray, although touched for 12 hits, bore down in the pinches and succeeded in earning his thirteenth victory of the season.

GEORGE LOTT NAMED TO OPPOSE FRENCH

Chicago U. Star Conceded Better Chance in Davis Cup Finals

New York (AP)—Selection of the United States Davis Cup team to play France in the challenge round starting this Friday in Paris, with George Lott of Chicago substituted for Francis T. Hunter of New York, was announced Sunday by the United States Tennis association. The three members are Big Bill Tilden, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, and John Van Ryn of Orange, N. J.

Tilden and Lott will play in the singles while the crack combination of Allison and Van Ryn, which has been cutting a sensational figure abroad, will play the doubles.

Lott's replacement of Hunter is the only change from the lineup which defeated Germany, 5 to 0, in the inter-zone competition concluded Sunday at Berlin.

No official explanation of the shift was contained in the announcement. It was made by Joseph W. Davis, chairman of the Davis Cup committee. On the national list Hunter ranks No. 2 and Lott No. 3. It was understood, however, on the basis of past performances

JACKIE FIELDS WILL MEET JOE DUNDEE IN WELTERWEIGHT BOUT

Baltimore Italian's Crown Is at Stake in Detroit Thursday Night

NEW YORK (AP)—This is a crucial week in the life of Jackie Fields, aggressive Los Angeles welterweight.

Fields already holder of the National Boxing Association's 147-pound crown, has a chance at last, to win general recognition when he clashes with Joe Dundee, Baltimore Italian, in a 15-round titular battle at Detroit on Thursday night.

Less by good luck than by good management, Dundee has held onto the welterweight crown for more than two years. Ever since he captured the title from Pete Letzo in June, 1927, Dundee has been more than a little reluctant to place it in jeopardy. Chiefly he has been content to go a-barnstorming, forcing all opponents to come in over the class limit. It was in a bout of this kind that he was knocked out by Young Thompson, Pacific coast Negro. Al Mello, by agreement, was overweighed, when he outpointed Dundee in two bouts this year.

Now the Baltimore Italian has decided to risk his title against the man, the critics have hailed as the most logical of all logical welterweight contenders, and there are plenty of them. Fields has beaten virtually every leading welterweight in the business, including Thompson and Sergeant Sammy Baker, who at one time was the east's leading candidate for the honor.

The bout, to be held in Floyd Fitzsimmons new Arena, probably will find Dundee on the short-end of the betting.

Featherweights and lightweights provide almost all the entertainment in the New York sector. Andre Rottis, featherweight champion, meets Al Singberg, light-heavyweight, in a ten round non-titular bout at Ebbets Field on Wednesday night for the benefit of this Wingate Memorial fund. On the same card, Mushy Callahan, junior welterweight titleholder, battles Jack (Kid) Berg, English lightweight, in another ten rounder but his title will be at home when he enters the ring. Stanislaus Loayza of Chile and Joey Medill of Chicago, lightweights, will provide the customers with some entertainment in the opening ten rounder.

At the Queensboro Stadium Tuesday night, Lope Tenorio, Philippine lightweight, battles Joe Glick, the Williamsburgh pants presser, over the ten round route.

At Philadelphia Monday night, Billy Wallace and Johnny Jadick are to clash in a ten rounder billed as being for the "lightweight championship of Pennsylvania." Al Brown, Panama Negro who is "defending bantamweight champion" so far as the New York state athletic is concerned, meets Mattie White of Kensington, in the semi-final.

TRIM HATS MORE EXTENSIVELY NOW

Embroideries in Many Felts Are in Silk or Wool Designs

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York.—Hats are being trimmed more extensively than they were this spring and it is likely they will be even more decorated for fall. Embroideries in silk or wool designs appear on many of the felts, occasionally there are a pair of felt wings added to the crown. For fall some of the hats just coming in are very soft and end in a wide spread of material which falls over the right ear and shoulder almost like a scarf.

The first hints of the annual mid-summer fur sale are upon us. The majority of the big showings will give a big space to scarfs, especially fur scarfs. The double silver fox scarfs are a feature and so are the blue foxes, although the latter are more frequently used as a trimming. Sable, mink and broadtail all will be well represented.

The evening frocks of chifton now are exploiting the panel. The bodices are severely plan and form-fitting while the skirts are made of numerous free floating panels which give lightness and grace. Blue and white and black and white combinations of color are frequently used for these dresses.

APPOINT NEENAH MAN RESERVE LIEUTENANT

(Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent)

Washington—Fred John Miller of Neenah has accepted appointment as a second lieutenant in the Infantry Reserves, the War Department announced.

Floyd Eugene Garton of Eau Claire has accepted appointment as a captain in the Infantry Reserves; Herbert Herman Rasche of Milwaukee, second lieutenant in the Field Artillery Reserves; and Mandel Nathaniel Goldstein of Kenosha, second lieutenant in the Signal Corps Reserves.

Other Wisconsin men who have accepted appointments as second lieutenants in the Infantry Reserves are: Perry Marsden Thomas, Roy William Thiel, Carson Abel Roberts, Vivian Francis Riley, and Fred Wilverstedt, all of Madison; Frank Leondias Hickisch of La Crosse; Walter Herman Brummond of Menomonie; George Kenneth Crowell of Almond; Frederick Stearns Hook of South Milwaukee; Gilbert Lawrence Jentz of Fond du Lac; George Frank Kimwinski of Cudahy; Roland Anthony Kuchuk of Shawano; Edward Albert Messer of Appleton; and Robert Humphrey Pratt of Milwaukee.

GARDEN PLANS TO MATCH SCHMELING WITH JACK SHARKEY

Carey Says N. Y. Commission Should Not Interfere With Outside Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Max Schmeling's suspension in New York will have no effect on Madison Square Garden's plans to match the German heavyweight against Jack Sharkey except to force the proposed bout outside the confines of the empire state.

That, in substance, was the "meat" in a statement issued by William F. Carey, president of the Garden corporation, outlining the corporation's plans for Schmeling's future ring engagements.

Schmeling has been suspended by the New York state athletic commission until he goes through with a match with Phil Scott of England. Articles for this match were signed with Humbert Fugazy by Arthur Buolov, Madison manager, non grata of Schmeling. The Garden boxed has refused consistently to go through with any matches arranged by his German manager.

Carey's statement pointed out that while the Garden is ready to "do all it can to uphold the rulings of the commission" still it feels that outside of New York "it should be permitted to maintain its right to promote a state or country where it is free to do so."

It was understood that the Garden hopes to stage the battle at Soldier Field, Chicago, with Boston and either Detroit or Windsor, Canada, still in the running.

BELGIAN ENVOY TO U. S. MAY BE GRAND MARSHAL

Brussels.—(AP)—Prince Albert de Ligne, Belgian ambassador to the United States, is mentioned by the newspaper Neptune of Antwerp as the probable successor to the highest grand marshal of the court, Count Doulremont.

According to this authority Prince de Ligne's successor at Washington would be Count de Kerkhove de Denberghem former governor of the province of East Flanders, who resigned that post when elected a senator.

Chuck Klein Has Chance To Set N. L. Homer Mark

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Mr. Charles Klein of the clouting Kleins of Philadelphia, if he does not actually threaten the celebrated home run record of Babe Ruth this season, at least stands a most excellent chance of topping the seven-year-old national league record of 42, set by Rogers Hornsby in 1922.

This is only one of the diverting possibilities of the current carnival of clout in the National league, which, by design or otherwise, has at least taken away some of the spotlight which has been focussed almost exclusively on the American league group led by Mr. Ruth since Jentz of Fond du Lac; George Frank Kimwinski of Cudahy; Roland Anthony Kuchuk of Shawano; Edward Albert Messer of Appleton; and Robert Humphrey Pratt of Milwaukee.

League and club records for distance hitting are already on the shelves but the center of interest now is Klein, who at this stage of the season is only two blows short of the pace that Ruth set in 1927.

INFANT MORTALITY RATE IS HIGHER IN APPLETON THIS YEAR

Rate Is Still Lower Than That Throughout State, However

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Correspondent to Post-Crescent)

Washington.—While Appleton's infant mortality rate increased in 1928 as compared with 1927, it was still lower than the death rate of Wisconsin babies as a whole.

Last year the infant mortality rate of Appleton was 54.5 per 1,000 live births, as against 43.8 for 1,000 live births in 1927. In Wisconsin the infant mortality rate jumped from 59.1 deaths per 1,000 live births in 1927 to 61.4 per 1,000 live births in 1928.

There were 642 babies born in Appleton last year as against 616 in 1927, and 257 persons died last year as against 294 in 1927. Last year 35 babies under one year old died in Appleton as against 27 in 1927.

The birth and death rate per 1,000 of estimated population are not reported by the United States bureau of the census for Appleton, as the 1928 population of cities having less than 30,000 in 1920 was not estimated last year.

A striking increase was shown in Madison's infant mortality rate. In 1927 Madison had the lowest infant mortality rate of the cities of the United States of 30,000 population or more, with the exceptions of East Orange, N. J. and Oak Park, Ill. In 1928 Madison's infant mortality rate increased to 53.4 per 1,000 live births from 38.1 in 1927.

The birth rate for the United States as a whole was 54.5 per 1,000 live births in 1928 as against 59.1 in 1927. The Wisconsin birth rate declined from 59.7 per 1,000 of estimated population in 1927 to 54.5 in 1928, while the total death rate increased from 10.1 per 1,000 population in 1927 to 10.8 per 1,000 population in 1928.

Last year 57,398 babies were born alive in Wisconsin, and 3,526 babies under one year old died. Total deaths in Wisconsin were 81,758, so that the population increased despite the increased death rate and the decreased birth rate.

The birth rate for the United States as a whole was 19.7 per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 20.7 in 1927, and the total death rate was 12.1 per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 11.4 in 1927.

Waukesha showed the lowest infant mortality rate of all Wisconsin cities, and it reduced its infant death rate from 54.4 per 1,000 live births in 1927 to 35.8 in 1928. West Allis took second honors, reducing its infant mortality rate from 61.3 per 1,000 live births in 1927 to 63.9 in 1928.

Manitowish reduced its infant mortality rate from 78.9 per 1,000 live births in 1927 to 38.8 in 1928. While Wausau and Manitowish still hold high infant mortality rates, both registered reductions last year, Wausau dropping from 54.6 in 1927 to 51.9 in 1928, and Manitowish dropping from 72.5 in 1927 to 67.5 in 1928.

TWO CITIES LOWER
Of the Wisconsin cities of more than 30,000 population as shown by the 1920 census, only Sheboygan and La Crosse showed reductions in the infant mortality rate in 1928 as compared with 1927. Sheboygan had the lowest infant mortality rate of the cities of more than 30,000 in Wisconsin, dropping to 47 per 1,000 live births in 1928 from 60.6 in 1927. La Crosse reduced its infant mortality rate from 62.9 per 1,000 live births in 1927 to 57.7 in 1928.

The birth rate and the total death rate are given for only the cities of 30,000 or more population in 1920, and of this group of nine Wisconsin cities, Kenosha had the lowest death rate, only 7.1 per 1,000 of estimated population in 1928, which was an increase, however, over its 1927 record of 6.8 deaths per 1,000 of population.

Superior had the lowest birth rate 16.5 per 1,000 of population in 1928 as against 19.3 per 1,000 in 1927. Only Madison, La Crosse, and Oshkosh of the cities of 30,000 and over showed a higher birth rate in 1928 than in 1927, while Milwaukee's birth rate remained static and its total death rate and its infant mortality rate increased.

In no Wisconsin city of 30,000 or more population did the total death rate decrease.

Birth and death rates for Wisconsin cities of 30,000 or more population, with comparisons between 1928 and 1927, are:

Green Bay, 31.5 births and 16.7 deaths per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 32.7 births and 15.8 deaths in 1927, and 73.1 deaths of babies under one year old in 1928 as against 62.1 in 1927.

MILWAUKEE RATE SAME

Kenosha, 18 births and 7.1 deaths per 1,000 in 1928 as against 20 births and 6.8 deaths in 1927.

per 1,000 in 1928 as against 20 births and 20 deaths in 1927, and 68 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 61 per 1,000 live births in 1928 as against 53.2 in 1927.

La Crosse, 36.5 births and 22.2 deaths per 1,000 of population in 1928 as against 35.9 births and 19.6 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 57.7 per 1,000 live births in 1928 as against 61.9 in 1927.

Madison, 29 births and 18.1 deaths per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 27.4 births and 15.5 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 53.4 in 1928 as against 38.1 in 1927.

Milwaukee 218 births and 11.3 deaths per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 21.8 births and 10.7 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 71 in 1928 as against 68 in 1927.

Oshkosh, 26.8 births and 12 deaths per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 25.6 births and 13.3 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 58.5 in 1928 as against 61.5 in 1927.

Racine, 18.9 births and 10 deaths per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 20.4 births and 7.9 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 52.5 in 1928 as against 52.3 in 1927.

Sheboygan, 23.6 births and 12 deaths per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 24.4 births and 11.3 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 47 in 1928 as against 60.6 in 1927. Superior, 16.7 births and 10.6 deaths per 1,000 population in 1928 as against 19.3 births and 10.4 deaths in 1927, and an infant mortality rate of 62.5 in 1928 as against 60.2 in 1927.

In Wisconsin cities having less than 30,000 but more than 10,000 population in 1920 the infant mortality rates in 1928 as compared with 1927 were:

Appleton, 54.5 in 1928 as against 43.8 in 1927; Ashland, 55.8 in 1928 as against 57.5 in 1927; Beloit, 54.2 in 1928 as against 49.7 in 1927; Eau Claire, 64.2 in 1928 as against 49.3 in 1927; Fond du Lac, 63 in 1928 as against 42.7 in 1927.

Janesville, 68 in 1928 as against 43.2 in 1927; Manitowish, 67.5 in 1928 as against 72.5 in 1927; Manitowish, 35.8 in 1928 as against 78.9 in 1927; Stevens Point, 79.4 in 1928 as against 62.1 in 1927; Waukesha, 35.8 in 1928 as against 54.4 in 1927.

Wausau, 51.9 in 1928 as against 54.6 in 1927, and West Allis, 36.4 in 1928 as against 61.3 in 1927.

MERGER CREATES FIFTH LARGEST BANK IN AMERICA

Son of Scandinavian Peddler and Son of Truck Gardener Wind Up Details

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press

New York.—The son of a Scandinavian peddler and the son of an Italian truck gardener met here Sunday to wind up the last details of a merger which will establish the fifth largest bank in America and the fourth largest in New York.

The former is Louis G. Kaufman, president of the Chatham Phoenix bank, and the latter is Amadeo P. Giannini, chairman of the board of the Bank of America, and the fourth largest bank in Italy, among the largest banking institutions of the world.

The merger brings together the Chatham Phoenix and the Bank of America Meetings Friday and Saturday, in which other officials of the two banks participated, were to decide upon the terms of the exchange of stock and other details.

Mr. Giannini, born in San Jose, Cal., in 1870, is related to the family truck farm in San Mateo county, south of San Francisco. He and his brother, Attilio, took the produce to San Francisco using at 2 o'clock in the morning to get the green goods to market. At the age of 12, he was employed in the wholesale commission district with Scatena and company, and at the age of 19 became a member of the firm. In 1904, he established the Bank of Italy, which now has 300 branch offices in 164 cities and towns with deposits of more than $600,000,000.

Mr. Giannini's Trans-America corporation, in which his family was merged with when all details are completed have a capital of $250,000,000.

WAS MESSENGER BOY
Born of Scandinavian immigrants, Mr. Kaufman began his life work as a messenger boy in the First National Bank and Trust company, of Manhattan. He became president of the bank, and in 1910, removed to New York to become president of the Chatham Phoenix National Bank and Trust company.

Both Mr. Giannini and Mr. Kaufman were pioneers in branch banking. When Mr. Kaufman first proposed to open branches in New York, he was refused permission, but when he threatened to withdraw from the national bank system, this permission was granted. Both have been patrons of education. Mr. Kaufman having contributed generously to the public schools of Manhattan. In 1928 Mr. Giannini gave $1,500,000 to the University of California.

The names of these two companies are added to the roll of many of the world's most famous names. Both have emerged to positions of national and world-wide fame in the financial reconstruction period since the world war. Charles S. McGinn, head of the merger of the Chase and National Bank, came from New York.

The Bank of America today being merged with the Chatham Phoenix has stood on the same site, at Wall and William streets, New York, since 1912. It has survived every attack, and a cataclysm without a tremor. In 1907, the year of the disastrous money panic, when banks were closing all over the United States, the Bank of America showed an increase of $555,330 in surplus and paid 26 percent in dividends.

FIRE CAUSES BIG LOSS TO FARMER IN MAPLE CREEK

Large Structure and Year's Hay Crop Destroyed by Flames

New London — Fire, thought to be caused by instantaneous combustion, discovered at about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, totally destroyed the large barn at the farm of Henry T. Roloff, route 1, New London. Mr. Roloff and his son George were at work in the fields some distance from the building, and noticed the fire at the same time the women of the household discovered it. A call was sent to the local fire department but little could be done for when the men reached the spot the entire barn was in flames.

Remembering that a valuable bull was in the barn George Roloff ran through the flames and smoke and found the animal unharmed. He started leading it from the west end of the stable but flames formed a wall and it was only with extreme difficulty that he found his way out another way. Firemen and neighbors succeeded in keeping the fire from spreading.

Valuable farm machinery, housed in a shed and also beneath the barn, was lost, including a grain binder, a new cabbage planter, corn planter, corn binder, farm wagon, feed grinder and corn sheller. With the help of neighbors a threshing machine was pushed out of danger. Fully 200 bushels of oats and wheat, the summer's crop of hay, the harvesting of which was completed on Friday, and a supply of straw was destroyed. The loss in excess of $6,000, is partly covered by insurance.

LEGION'S JUNIORS WIN DISTRICT GAME

Westphal's Home Run Gives New London 10 to 5 Win Over Clintonville

New London — In a game featured by clean sportsmanship the Junior American Legion team, under the management of Art Leach and Ray Pahl, Saturday afternoon, won the first district contests, 10-5, from the Clintonville team sponsored by the American Legion.

The game was close until Westphal of New London made a home run with three men on bases. The pitchers were well matched. Pfeiffer gave three walks during the eight innings he pitched, and Shepherd gave four. Each of the ten hits made by New London resulted in a run.

The lineup, New London—Granger c. Dobberstein c. Ladwig 3b. Westphal ss. Hoppe 1b. Pfeiffer p. Smith 2b. Hoffman rf. McDermott lf. Clintonville — Heideke, lf. Spearbraker, cf. Cinkowski 1b. Loose ss. Hemmer 2b. McClone 3b. Kant rf. Monte c. Shepherd p.

Clintonville is eliminated from the race and if New London wins its game with Weyauwega, they will be county champs, and will be billed for a game with other district teams.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT TOUR TO BE HELD

Farmers in Vicinity of Clintonville to Make Trip on Tuesday

Clintonville — After several weeks of planning a soil improvement tour will be held on Tuesday, July 23. All farmers have been invited to attend this tour. The group will gather at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the C. A. Brehrer farm on highway 156. Speeches will be given by Prof. C. P. Chappman of the soil department of the University of Wisconsin and also Prof. Briggs of the College of Agriculture. A dinner will be served at noon at the Four Wheel Drive barracks, given by the business men of this city.

On Tuesday, July 23, another meeting of dairymen in this community will be held to further discuss and possibly organize a local unit to the Chicago Milk association. Representatives of the Chicago Milk Producers' association will be present.

Mr. Billington of the National Cheese Producers' Federation of Wausau will be among the speakers. Congressman George J. Schneider, Appleton, who has also made a study of farm problems, has promised to attend the meeting and give an address.

Mrs. Dorothy Tandy and children, Mildred and Ruth, Washington, D. C., are visiting with relatives in this city.

Miss De Vera Bohman has returned to her work at the Four Wheel Drive Auto company after being confined to her home for the past month, following an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Theodore Steudel is in Theda Clark hospital in Neenah, where she is recovering from an operation. She expects to be able to return home in about a week.

William G. Utz, landlord of the Hotel Chilton, has leased the Congress hotel in Kaukauna and will assume the management in a few weeks. He will continue here as landlord of the Hotel Chilton, and will make some other arrangements in regard to the Kaukauna hotel.

Perry Larson who for the past two years has conducted the Chilton Cleaning and Dyeing establishment in the Schmidt building, disposed of his interest in the business to his brother, Louis, of Neenah, who will take over the business on July 23.

The weekly open air band concert will not be held Wednesday as the members are busy preparing a float to enter in the homecoming parade on Sunday, July 28.

UNEVEN GROUND IS FINE FOR MAKING ROCK GARDEN

BY D. VICTOR LUMSDEN (U. S. Department of Agriculture)

Properties situated where the topography is uneven and on areas having naturalistic vegetation prove likely locations for the establishment of a rock garden.

Owners of such sites are frequently perplexed by having steep slopes which wash badly during heavy rains and upon which grass grows unevenly and is difficult to cut. Shade often is also a factor, and there are plants suitable for rock gardens which thrive in locations having limited sunlight.

The establishment of a rock garden also serves at times as a means of disposing of otherwise undesirable rocks. Such material proves effective for use, as native stone is recommended rather than a type unusual to the locality. However, a pile of stone built up on an otherwise level area with no reason for its existence is not advocated. A rock garden should fit into its surroundings as a unit in the design.

In the construction of a rock garden one can find no better examples than some of the stone outcroppings existing in nature.

After studying examples and photographs, the actual work can begin. Have an abundance of good soil for use in the pockets between the rocks.

Place the stones with weather beaten faces exposed to the top surfaces slop back into the soil. By placing stones at frequent intervals pockets for plants are formed. Fill these with good soil with which is incorporated one-fourth leaf mold. Firm the soil to exclude all air pockets before doing any planting.

For a choice of plants suitable under such conditions consult the catalogs of plantmen. Many of them, recognizing the popularity of the rock garden, are printing lists of plants suitable for such purposes.

The rock garden not only will prove to be an added attractive to home grounds but it may solve the problem of treating an area unsuited to any other method of beautification. If the suite is on a steep bank the projecting stones will stop water from sweeping down the slope, and when plants are established the spot which presented a problem will become a place of beauty.

HORTONVILLE MAN STRUCK BY AUTO

President of Bank Suffers Severe Bruises in Accident Saturday Night

Hortonville — Fred N. Torrey, president of the Bank of Hortonville, was struck by a car driven by a young man from Oshkosh while crossing Main-st Saturday night. Mr. Torrey was unconscious for a short time. Although not injured seriously he suffered several bruises. The driver stopped and gave his name.

Mrs. Adeline Helterhoff, who submitted to an operation at the Community hospital at New London last week, is recovering rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Falck and Mrs. William Dobberstein left Wednesday morning for a western trip. They will visit Yellowstone park and other points of interest.

The Baptist Sunday school held its annual picnic Thursday at the Hortonville Fair grounds.

Mrs. Amelia Haller and daughter, Marcella, left Saturday morning for Milwaukee where they spent the week end.

Miss Zella Hill, who has been the commercial teacher in the high school for the past four years, resigned to accept a position in the high school at Crystal Lake, Ill.

BADGER BRIEFS

Oconto — (A) — Six-year-old John Deering of Suring, was fatally injured when the automobile which his father was driving collided with another car at a cross-roads near Zachow.

Reedsburg — (A) — The 3-year-old son of Edward Gavin, a farmer living near here, had one leg severed and another badly mutilated when he became entangled in a grain binder.

Milwaukee — (A) — A drugstore clerk was held up, and the store robbed of $100 here yesterday, while a customer was reading a newspaper. The bandit walked to the back of the store, and after pretending to make a purchase forced the clerk into the prescription room, where he bound and gagged him. The customer discovered him 15 minutes later. Police have not yet apprehended the bandit.

Reedsburg — (A) — The oath of office was administered here today to 46 men who will form the Sauk-co Community guards, an organization sponsored by the bankers of the county for use in case of robberies, holdups or other emergencies. Each of the men is to be equipped with a sawed-off shot gun and quantities of ammunition.

Rhinelander — (A) — Donald Pehl, 13, son of Fred Pehl, prominent northern Wisconsin lumberman, died here today.

Elkhorn — (A) — Weekend fishing expedition proved fatal for two Milwaukee men, Frank J. Premo and John E. Brown, who were drowned when their boat capsized in Pleasant lake, six miles north of here, Sunday afternoon. The accident occurred a short distance from the shore, directly off the camp of a Chicago Girl Scout organization.

ELECTRIC ENERGY SYSTEMS GROWTH EXPECTED TO LAST

Expert Urges Expansion Be Along Geographical Divisions

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York — Plans now under consideration indicate that the formation of superpower electrical energy systems will continue steadily throughout the country.

Movement to that end has taken on new activity as a result of the merger by which the Niagara Hudson Power corporation was formed and which has just been declared effective. This consolidation has established the company as the largest producer of electric energy in the United States and there is no doubt expressed in electrical circles that both Niagara Hudson Power and the North American company, the second largest producer, will continue to add to their holdings.

These facts have turned the attention of financiers and of the so-called super-power system. At present such regulation engineers toward the regulation must rest in the hands of the interstate commerce commission if the line transportation current from state to state or in those of the state utility commissions if they are in intra-state business.

QUESTIONS SYSTEM

Growth of the super power chains, however, is making it evident that such a division of regulation is not suitable to the exigencies of the business, according to electricians. More and more of them therefore, are coming to the belief expressed by Col. Robert B. Marshall, former chief Geographer of the U. S. geological survey, Col. Marshall, who foresees the superpower development before it was attempted actually, declares that political divisions for regulation of power development are not suitable, but that regulation should be governed by physical divisions.

Colonel Marshall, who became chief geographer in 1908, made almost complete contour maps of this country, bringing down the intervals to less than 100 feet. It was these maps which laid the basis for the development of super power systems, since they showed the source of power supply, every hill and valley which could effect transmission and the centers of population and industry.

When he retired in 1920, he filed a report with the government, which has laid apparently forgotten since that time, in which he outlined possibilities and plans for a great countrywide superpower system. In discussing that plan he said: "Large scale development, integration and distribution of electric power is inevitable whether it comes by private or public development. The political structure of the country must either be adapted to the requirements of such developments or subordinated to them. It may not come in my lifetime but there unquestionably will be a fundamental study and organization of power developments, first, over large sections

WOULD INCREASE AIR DEFENSES OF CANAL

Balboa, Canal Zone — (A) — Increase in air defenses of the Panama Canal was advocated by Congressman W. Frank James of Michigan, chairman of the house military affairs committee, in a statement today.

"More air protection is essential," the congressman said. "Our coast defense guns are quite capable of holding off enemy battleships but the real danger would be from bombing planes, which could break havoc with the canal if a sufficient number got past the air defenses. The actual defense of the canal is planes, more planes, and still more planes."

TWINS PREPARING TO SWIM CHANNEL

Dover, England — (A) — As part of their training to swim the English Channel, the Zittenfeld twins, Bernice and Phyllis, entered the water this morning on the swim to Ramsgate, a distance of 20 miles. Their trainer, Billie Kellingley, expressed confidence they would establish a new world record for the distance.

of America and eventually over the entire country. In my opinion power development will come first, but eventually flood control, power and irrigation, will be linked, possibly in one great national engineering and financial enterprise.

No widespread animosity has made itself apparent to the super power chains in congress or in the regulatory bodies, according to electrical men, but they would welcome changes which would at least bring regulations up to date and make them applicable to present and future conditions.

The power development of the country has only started. The waterpower developed in 1928 was capable of producing 1,275,530 horsepower. This was a gain of 10 per cent for the year and brought the total water power developed in the country to 13,571,530. There still remains undeveloped, according to present estimates, about 25,000,000 horsepower and these sites may eventually be found to develop 50,000,000 or more.

Kaukauna Loses 12-Inning Game to Green Bay, 7-5

Five Home Runs Are Knocked in Heavy Hitting Fracas

Kaukauna—Five home runs featured the baseball game between Green Bay and Kaukauna Sunday afternoon at the local ball park, which the latter lost 7 to 5 after a 12-inning battle. The home runs were hit by Les Smith, Wenzel and R. Smith of the home club and by Becker and Boehm of the Green Sox. The home run of Becker netted four runs for Green Bay. Both teams had five runs until the twelfth inning.

Kaukauna played good ball up to the twelfth inning when Green Bay got two runs on four hits. All other scores were made during the first three innings. The fans saw plenty of excitement when there was disagreement on several decisions between the players and umpires LePine and Collier.

Mulry played an excellent game at short stop and made several spectacular catches. A catch by him in the sixth inning prevented two runs. A high fly was knocked to center field and Mulry turned off with a jump, caught the ball with one hand. "Shorty" Wenzel handled the slick to good advantage and netted three hits, one a home run, in five trips to the plate. "Mush" Esler, formerly of the Little Fox league, played at right field. He is a new player with the squad.

Kaukauna pounded Lewellen for 10 hits while Green Bay took 14 hits off Refke. Becker, Glick and Molenda played good game for the Sox. By bunching hits in the third and twelfth innings Green Bay downed the less lucky Kaws.

KAWS SCORE FIRST
The first scores for the locals came in the last half of the first inning. Vils hit and was sacrificed to second by Mulry. Les Smith hit a home run, and was followed by Wenzel, who also hit the ball over the wall. Things looked rosy for the Smithmen as the inning ended with them on top, 3 to 0.

In the first half of the third inning, Green Bay went into a lead when they scored five runs. Boehm took a trip around the runways when the ball was hit in center field in the long grass. Zuidmuller singled and King succeeded in getting to first base on an error. Clausman walked and Becker hit a home run.

Kaukauna tied the score in the last half of the inning. Wenzel singled and scored on a home run by Ray Smith. Both teams then settled down to good steady ball playing. Only an occasional hit was slammed out and no scores were made until the twelfth inning.

When the last inning rolled around the fans became restless with excitement. Kirkhoff singled and Glick repeated. Clausman forced Glick out and Kirkhoff scored. Molenda singled and scored on a hit by Lewellen. The base runners were played no and things went so fast that before the confusion ended the Sox were leading by two runs. Kaukauna went to bat but made three straight outs.

NAVY DEVELOPING RADIO EQUIPMENT FOR AIR-LINERS

Want Dirigibles of This Country Best Equipped in World

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press

Washington—As work forces ahead on the navy's two new dirigibles under construction at Akron, O. naval radio experts are applying themselves to the development of the radio equipment for the air-liners with the objective of having them the finest-equipped mobile radio stations in existence.

From the most obsolescent navy dirigibles Los Angeles experiments are being conducted with a view of attaining maximum efficiency for the sets to be installed on the new dirigibles. Last October, just after the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin made her flight to the United States, the navy designated the Los Angeles for experimental work in radio.

Specifications and details of the new equipment for the dirigibles now under construction are withheld under naval regulations regarding confidential radio equipment in aeronautics and radio is kept confidential for two years because of the element of competition with foreign nations. The Los Angeles, however, already is being re-equipped with radio apparatus of the type proposed to be employed on the ZR-4 and ZR-5.

The navy hopes to develop apparatus for the dirigibles with a communication range equal to their cruising radius, so as to assure direct communication with the home station at all times during flight. Since the cruising radius will be of about 10,000 miles, this means that intermediate and high frequency equipment with sufficient power to transmit this distance with good signal strength must be developed.

Particular attention is being devoted to the shielding of the engines on the new craft to prevent magnetism which is so detrimental to reception. The dirigibles will carry eight high-powered engines, whereas the Los Angeles carries only five. Consequently more efficient shielding of spark plugs and ignition systems to eliminate these interferences must be developed.

A layout for the radio requirements of the ZR-4 and ZR-5 was made by Lieut. Commander A. I. Price who for more than three years has been in charge of the radio section of the bureau of aeronautics, and who now is ordered to sea duty. Commander Price could not divulge any of the details of the proposed equipment, but he emphasized the extreme importance of having transmitters of adequate range and power to render efficient service in any distance.

POINTERS FOR THE EFFICIENT FARMER

Most cows need a rest of from four to six weeks between lactation periods. High-producing cows need eight weeks.

Cucumbers for market should not be cleaned with a cloth or brush as this destroys the small spines and the "frothy" finish of fresh cucumbers. The best way to wash off dirt is to put the cucumbers in clean cold water and stir them slightly.

Special care should be taken at this time of year with milk and cream that is shipped from the farm. Milk stands at the roadside should be shaded, and cans of milk hauled in trucks or wagons should be covered with canvas. Heavy jackets for milk cans aid considerably in keeping milk cold.

The summer silo usually is the best means of supplementing short, dried-up pastures in July and August. For a herd of 12 to 20 cows, a silo from 10 to 12 feet in diameter is well suited, as the silage can be fed fast enough to prevent spoiling. Silage will keep for several years and it can be carried over from one season to another.

During the summer the dipping method may be used effectively against the more than 40 species of lice that infest various domestic fowls. The fowls are dipped into a tub full of tepid water containing sodium fluoride in the proportions of three-fourths to one ounce of commercial sodium fluoride to each gallon of water.

Fields of hay consisting mostly of weeds can be put in the silo, since plants that aren't eaten in the green state or as hay usually are eaten as silage. Too, weedy hay can be stacked in the pasture before it has cured well. It will make a brown hay that will be eaten readily and will supply a valuable supplement to short pastures.

The safest manner of disposing of carcasses of animals on the farm is to burn them to ashes; the next safest way is to cover them with lime and bury them deeply. If a carcass is left on the ground, birds, dogs, and other animals may feed on it and spread disease and parasites.

Wife Runs Farm While Husband Works On Board

Northfield, Minn.—(P)—While her husband goes to Washington to assist in working out the program contemplated in the congressional farm bill, Mrs. William F. Schilling will stay as manager of their Spring Brook farm, a 320-acre tract near here.

Schilling is the dairy industry's representative on the board. He is well known as a breeder of Holstein cattle.

Mrs. Schilling often has supervised the farm with its herd of more than 100 cattle, as her husband frequently has been away in the interests of the Twin City Milk Producers' association of St. Paul, the largest dairy cooperative organization, and he has been in demand as a speaker at farmers gatherings.

But this time she will be in control, as Schilling intends to devote all his energies to the farm situation.

William F. Schilling, Jr., 20, will be his mother's chief aid. Then there are Lewis, who attends St. Olaf college here, and Joel, in high school, and three unmarried daughters. Two daughters are married.

"My first duty is my home and my place is right here at Spring Brook farm," Mrs. Schilling said. "The boys are doing wonderfully well, but they are not quite ready to take over the complete management of this half-section."

"Of course, I'm pleased and proud of the confidence in Mr. Schilling expressed by President Hoover in the appointment," Mrs. Schilling went on, dropping her household duties for a few minutes. "Mr. Schilling has made betterment of agriculture his life work and this new responsibility will offer him a broader field of service."

"At the same time it will mean a sacrifice for him and his family for he will have to give his full time to his duties on the farm board and will have less for his family and his private farming interests."

"But that seems to be the nature of public service in which there is an element of duty to be performed. Our family loves the farm. If Mr. Schilling's service in Washington means that he will be able to make a further contribution to the betterment of agricultural life in our country, his wife and sons and daughters are happy and proud that he is able to give it."

NIXON BILL APT TO BE ONLY CHANGE IN CORRUPT PRACTICES

Joint Committee for Investigating Campaigns Not Functioning

Madison—(P)—Assemblyman Robert A. Nixon's bill for revamping the corrupt practices act may be the only change made in the state law regarding election practices and expenses.

Although the Republican party in its state platform carried a plank for strengthening of the act and Gov. Kohler recommended the same thing, a joint legislative committee for investigating campaigns back to 1924 and revising the act has been unable to function. Senate members resigned and new ones have not yet been named, following refusal of the assembly members to suffer chairmanship of allegedly partisan Senatorial chairmanship.

The Nixon bill is expected to be recommended for passage by the assembly elections committee. Its principal provisions are: Candidates may combine into slates and form a campaign fund pool, but if they do so they can spend only 75 per cent of what they would be allowed to spend campaigning individually.

Candidates for state offices must have personal campaign committees. Any expenditure over $25 by anyone in behalf of any candidate for state office must be with the consent of the candidate and must be counted as a part of that candidate's total expenditures.

Amounts candidates may spend are increased. Persons running for U. S. senator are now allowed to spend $5,000 and persons seeking the governorship may spend $4,000. The Nixon bill would allow candidates for either of these offices to spend $10,000. Candidates for Congress, secretary of state, attorney general, lieutenant governor, and state treasurer are now limited to $1,750. The bill would let them spend $2,500. Candidates for assembly and senate would be allowed to spend one-third of their salary.

Nixon submitted an amendment to the committee which would also limit expenditures by state-wide and congressional district party convention delegate candidates. Those who are statewide delegates candidates would be allowed to spend $2,000, and congressional district delegates would be allowed $1,000. At present there is no restriction on the amount such candidates may spend.

AMERICAN HIGH COMMISSIONER HAS MOST POWERFUL JOB

Ambitious Federal Job-seekers Aim for These Scarce Positions

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—(P)—More ambitious job-seekers may be enough to satisfy such elderly millionaires as Charles G. Dawes and Dwight Morrow, but the really ambitious federal job-seekers will go hunting for a post as an American High Commissioner.

An ambassador parks himself in a foreign capital and usually becomes little more than a glorified messenger boy. But when an American High Commissioner goes where he goes there to run the whole show. He has the rank of an ambassador and he ranks as the senior officer present at all times.

There is no more powerful American outside this country than an American High Commissioner. He is perhaps the nearest modern approach we have to the old Roman proconsul.

Unfortunately, there are very few of these jobs to be had. There never were very many and the only High Commissioners now in force is that of Major General John A. Russell of the Marines, who has been our High Commissioner to Haiti since 1922. The chances are that General Russell will hold his job indefinitely, but there has been some agitation for his replacement by a civilian, so it may be a good

What appeared to be a demonstration of Russell's power was given last year when Senator King of Utah, who had criticized American occupation of Haiti, was barred from visiting the country by President Borno. While it could not be shown that Russell had inspired the ban, few failed to concede that a word from him to Borno would promptly have averted this affront to an American senator.

With the benign touch tact approval of Russell, free press and free speech in Haiti have been pretty generally suppressed and Borno has jammed through laws take over under the treaty. American courts, which we did not take over under the treaty, dissolved the Haitian congress, so Russell hasn't a representative legislative body to control with as has our governor general in the Philippines.

SYMPATHETIC

State Department officials say that Russell is very sympathetic with the Haitians. He has maintained peace and order, built roads, established agricultural schools, diversified crops, insured sanitation and health measures, maintained up-to-date service in the debt and provided more money for government expenditures. The Marines had to kill 200 or 300 Haitians for their own good about ten years ago, but such killings have not since been found necessary.

There have been numerous complaints to the effect that American rule has inflicted misery on the mass of Haitians—complaints that are usually denied, but enough to make it that General Russell hasn't introduced a millennium. Nevertheless, he has fully demonstrated what a pious person is an American High Commissioner. Under a treaty extension, the Haitian job is good until 1935.

RUSSELL'S WHOLE COUNTRY

Russell is an excellent example of the power that can be lodged with a High Commissioner. He deals directly with the president—sometimes called "our puppet president"—of Haiti and the State Department. For eight years, under our treaty with Haiti, he has had away from that country's customs, finances, police system, public works, education and public health.

All American treaty officials, directing these various branches of government, come under the general. Although an officer of the Marines he is not compelled to wear a uniform and doesn't. He has been on the job for eight years and was first appointed on the recommendation of a senatorial committee which went to the island about 1920.

BARNES TO SPEAK TO UTILITY ASSOCIATION

Green Bay—(P)—J. P. Barnes, president of the American Electrical Railway association, is scheduled as the principal speaker at a two day meeting of the transportation section of the Wisconsin Utilities association here beginning Aug. 15, according to plans announced today.

Mayor John V. Diener will welcome the delegates to the city at the opening session and response will be made by M. H. Frank, vice-president of the Wisconsin Power and Light company, Fond du Lac. Henry Cordell, Chicago Milwaukee Electric railway company, will deliver the chairman's address.

Recreation at the Onondaga Golf and Riding club and a trip through the Wisconsin State Reformatory will occupy the delegates during the afternoon session of the first day.

Business will be resumed the following morning. Addresses will be made by a representative of the Wisconsin railroad commission; G. W. VanDerzee, president of the Wisconsin Utilities association; J. H. Kuony, Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company; A. A. Oldfield, of the Wisconsin Power and Light company; Dudley Montgomery, Madison, and J. W. O'Connell of the Chicago street railway company.

Tiny Keith, a 326-pound life guard at an Indianapolis bathing pool, claims to have rescued 1,133 persons from drowning.

up to job seekers to suggest that they sound out President Hoover. One recalls only two other High Commissioners within the past two years. Charles G. Dawes was made High Commissioner to the Dominican Republic several years ago and served two years, commuting between Santo Domingo and Washington until he had straightened out the country to the State Department's satisfaction.

The other was Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol who, as High Commissioner to Turkey, was one of the most important figures in the Near East during the post-war period. Bristol co-ordinated our policies and looked after American interests in that section of the world and proved himself a diplomat of parts. He was on the commission which investigated the Greek occupation of Smyrna and was a delegate to the Lausanne Conference. Lately he has commanded the Asiatic fleet.

CHAPTER 41 THE FINAL GESTURE

I HAD expected some such climax as this; and as Jerry's voice faded out again we found ourselves looking at one another with melancholy eyes. He began again.

"Dad found a bit of candle in one of his pockets. He struck another match and lighted the candle. As the match touched the ground fire spurted up and sizzled for a moment. Dad said he supposed a little powder had been spilled by one of the mine hands."

"Holding the candle, dad knelt by the body. Uncle Jerry's face had a fierce look on it. The wound was around the heart. Dad's other gold-mounted pistol lay beside the body. Near it was a copy of the Torridity newspaper."

"Dad turned the cylinder of the revolver. One cartridge had been discharged. He went to the door with the light. The key he had pushed under the door was where he had left it. He was quite sure what had happened. Uncle Jerry had concluded dad wouldn't be able to do anything for him and killed himself. His despondency had been natural, but it hadn't occurred, to dad that he'd take his own life."

"Uncle Jerry was nearer to him than any one else -- he hadn't any one else, then. Those few minutes by Uncle Jerry in that tunnel became the keystone of the life he'd yet to live. He talked to the body as if Uncle Jerry were listening."

"Why did you do it, son? Didn't I tell you I'd get you out? Dad blamed himself for taking Uncle Jerry to Torridity. 'It wasn't any place for a kid like you. I failed you all along. I'm through, son. I'm pulling out tonight. Maybe some day I'll feel you've forgiven me.'"

"He began to think about giving Uncle Jerry decent burial. But where should he put him? He could never bring himself to work the mine again, and as Uncle Jerry had chosen to die in it why not make it his tomb? If Lundy's heirs found the transfer, he'd negotiate for the property."

"Dad had started to get up when the light flashed on the small blade of Uncle Jerry's knife. There was a stub of indelible pencil beside it. The pencil suggested a note and he picked up the newspaper. There wasn't any writing on it, but he noticed that the top of the back sheet had been torn off. Dad went through Uncle Jerry's pockets, fully expecting to find the missing scrap of paper with some word for him on it."

"There was no scrap of writing either on the body or near it. Bitterly disappointed, he placed the knife, the pencil, and the other trifles on the newspaper."

"Dad got up, thinking of Dillon Queen. He going off like that, he reflected. There was another queer thing, too, that wound in Jerry's chest. Suicide usually fired at their heads."

"Dismissing these thoughts, dad hurried outside. To do what he had in mind would take some little time and he hadn't a moment to spare. The town was still quiet. Dad looked up at the overhang. It was some 200 feet high, dad said, 100 feet wide, and 30 thick at the bottom. The bottom of the fissure was 30 feet above the top of the mine door and it was fairly accessible by a rough trail."

"Dad went into the powder house and lighted a carbide lamp. There was plenty of dynamite. He began to trundle the stuff to the foot of the fissure trail, and then carried it into the fissure, a case at a time."

"The last case carried into the fissure, dad rushed back to the powder house and gathered electric fuses, copper wire, a battery box, a screw driver, a hammer, and a pair of wire cutters and returned to the fissure. He forced the cases open, stuck fuses into two cartridges in each case, and attached copper wire to each fuse. He then shoved the dynamite into old-drillings and crevices at strategic points and packed it down with earth and rubble. The lengths of copper wire which stuck out of each pocket of dynamite he connected to his main lines."

"He hurried down the trail, paying out the wires. Picking up the battery box, he raced to a point about 150 yards north of the overhang. The coils ran out there, and he connected them to the battery box."

"He cut back to the building and looked in at the bunkhouse. None of his men were in and he made for the stable. Gunpowder, the gray, whinnied to him but he saw nothing of Bluebell, the mare. Dad watered and saddled the gray and led it outside."

"He then drove out the six mules. Diving into his cabin, he wiped the sweat off his body, got into a clean shirt, clipped in an old Stetson, and picked up a half-filled water canteen. He said he couldn't go without another look at Uncle Jerry."

"Dad had just got to the mine door when he heard shouting off towards Torridity. Turning, he saw lights. The lights grew brighter, the shouting louder. Then he went in to Uncle Jerry."

"I'm here to tell you good-by, son," he said. "I'm giving you one grand funeral. It's all I can do. I reckon they'll not bother you. You can be here forever. Can you hear me, son?"

"He dropped to his knees and repeated the Lord's prayer."

"The shouting began to boom in the tunnel. Dad picked up the gold-mounted gun. But as he slid the gun into his holster a thought struck him and he drew it out again and placed it beside the body. It was just another of Dad's impulses. A good soldier had a right to be buried with his weapons."

"A last look and he was racing for Gunpowder. He picked up the box and peered off towards Torridity. He could just see a fan-shaped shadow sweeping across the burned-out place. They were after blood."

"The shadow swept on towards the mine. Dad shoved the plunger down. Gunpowder shot forward."

"Nothing happened for a split second or so, then hell broke loose. He thought his eardrums would burst beneath the roar of the explosion. A fearful grinding, crunching, crashing sound followed the roar. Gravel and pebbles showered upon him and as they pelted Gunpowder's haunches the gray went on like a cannon ball."

"It was just dawn when dad got to the top of Pitchfork. As he looked down over the Skull he felt as if he were tearing his fingers from his throat. He swung the gray around and faced the west. It was then that the name he had been looking for came to him 'Andrew Ogden.' It was a good name."

"That's the Torridity story, Uncle John."

(Copyright, 1929, Wm. Morrow Co.)

Andrew Ogden's murder is still unsolved. The story of "Gold Bullets" continues with tomorrow's chapter.

More than 300 saddle horses and polo ponies, whose owners are particular about the shoes their horses wear, are included in his clientele. Wallace's old shop is used only as a headquarters for appointments.

MORALS BODY GIVES VIEWS ON 'DRY' NOTE

Interpretation of Wickersham Letter Entirely Wrong, Statement Says

Washington—(AP)—The Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, in its latest publication "Clipsheet," gives its interpretation of the much discussed reference to "modification" of the prohibition laws in the letter of George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, read at the recent governors' conference.

In that letter, addressed to Governor Roosevelt of New York, the commission chairman suggested that enforcement responsibility be definitely divided between the federal and state governments and that, if this were done, "national and state laws might be modified so as to become reasonable and enforceable."

"Mr. Wickersham," the Methodist board says, "makes use of the unfortunate word 'modification' in a paragraph which seems to suggest an adjustment of state and federal statutes for the purpose of facilitating cooperation in enforcement. Interpretation of 'modification' to imply that state laws may be enacted which in fact legalize alcohol content in beverages prohibited by the federal constitution, is we believe, an entirely mistaken one."

U. S. MUST KEEP POWER

"In our opinion it will not be desirable that the federal government should surrender its liberty of action. Even now, citizens in considerable numbers complain that they are not receiving from their local and state police the protection that they are entitled to under the federal constitution. In such cases, where the rights of citizens to security from depredations of the liquor traffic are ignored, the federal government has the unpleasant duty to intervene, but it is in all cases and unfortunate necessity and greatly to be deplored."

The statement says "it is not at once apparent why the enforcement commission chairman's suggestions should be considered revolutionary."

"Mr. George W. Wickersham, chairman of the crime commission addressed a letter to the twenty-first annual governors' conference, making certain suggestions in regard to the enforcement of the prohibition laws which seem to have been considered sensational," the board relates.

In brief, Mr. Wickersham suggested, (1) enactment in all the states of prohibition enforcement laws, and (2) a recognized definition of federal and state responsibilities in prohibition enforcement, with the federal government limiting its activities to a discharge of purely federal functions and the states doing the detail police and judicial work necessary for the suppression of the illegal retail liquor trade.

KOHLER ALL SET FOR SECOND TERM

Politicians Think Governor Is in Position Now to Be Reelected

Madison, Wis.—As a factory for campaign issues, the present legislative session has been a failure to date, and Gov. Walter J. Kohler's followers say he is firmly established in Wisconsin politics and predict he can be reelected.

When Gov. Kohler signed the bill wiping out the state dry law he grasped the greatest single political opportunity available, in the opinion of most legislators.

Wisconsin never elects an outspoken dry as a governor and as far as Gov. Kohler's career is concerned, actions will speak louder than words. He now can keep silent on the wet issue, standing on his record, and calmly accept any assaults that may come on this ground, but there probably will be few.

THREE CORNERED FIGHT LIKELY

Fred R. Zimmerman, shoved out by the governorship of Kohler in the last election, is expected to enter the field again as a pronounced dry. His entry would mean a three-cornered fight, the La Follette faction being certain to enter a candidate.

Labor has received considerable consideration from Gov. Kohler that may bear considerable political weight. Labor wanted the "yellow dog" contract law to prohibit employees from bargaining from labor unions. The governor signed it. He also signed a full crew bill for the railroad brotherhoods.

The big La Follette issue before the legislature is carried in the utility bills to permit municipalities to engage in the power business, and to change the utility tax laws.

INHERITANCE TAX BILL

The Schmeck bill for reciprocity in inheritance taxes might have been seized as a first class issue, but it would have been embarrassing to explain why virtually all the La Follette members of the house vote to send this measure on its way. La Follette faction leaders even voted

FISHERMAN SAVES ANOTHER IN FIGHT WITH DEVIL FISH

Los Angeles—(AP)—The story of a battle between two men and a huge octopus off the coast between Redondo and Point Firmin, near here was told yesterday by Web Monstad, captain of a fishing boat, who fell into the clutches of the devil fish but was saved when Roy Pettibone, another fisherman, came to his rescue.

Captain Monstad fell into a kelp bed while searching for fishing grounds. A tentacle wrapped around his arm, and the water became murky from a fluid released by the octopus. Pettibone, who was in a second boat, saw Monstad floundering and forced his way through the kelp.

Pettibone arrived after Captain Monstad disappeared beneath the surface of the choppy water. The man reappeared, and Pettibone hacked off one tentacle after another. Captain Monstad said as soon as Pettibone cut off one of the feelers another gripped him. He fainted when Pettibone lifted him into the boat but was revived.

The appearance of the octopus was the first of dangerous size on record here in many years.

EMPLOY CAUTION IN UTILITIES, IS EXPERT'S WARNING

Rise in Utility Stocks Has Been Carried to Extremes, He Says

By GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1929, by Coos. Press
New York—In no group of stocks has speculation for the rise been carried to such extremes as in the public utilities. No where has there been so much discounting of the future nor so high a capitalization of present earning power. Justification is based on the non-competitive service, the electric light and power and the gas companies sell, the steadily increasing earnings they report and the experienced and aggressive management they enjoy.

From the very nature of the case a public utility is a natural monopoly. The struggle to win popular favor which the individual motor car manufacturer must continuously make always with an eye to what his rivals are doing is unknown in the utility field. There is no substitute service which the utility operator has to fear. Month by month and year by year his income statements show larger growth and larger net. This is more than can be said of any industrial corporation. Then too the public utilities have managed their relations with their customers with intelligence.

It is understood that utility stocks should have been leaders in the bull market. Nevertheless there is something to be said on the other side. All speculative movements go too far at times and there is reason to believe that this has happened in the case of the utilities. Even if they should pay out to their shareholders all their surplus earnings which of course they could not do the return at present prices for their common stocks would be unattractive.

The only motive for buying utility stocks now is the exception of passing them on to someone else for more money. Furthermore it is reasonable to expect if profits do grow as the market seems to expect them to do that public service commissions will insist on a cut in rates and very properly so.

Something in the way of additional economies may be expected from mergers and combinations but the chances are that these savings will be much smaller than anticipated. It is certainly a time for caution if one is buying utility stocks for investment and not for speculation.

POPE EXPECTED TO VISIT MONASTERY

Rome—(AP)—A Cassino dispatch to the newspaper Il Tevere says that Pope Pius is expected to visit the Benedictine monastery at Monte Cassino this season.

The paper says that 10-year-old Giuseppe Giallonardi, together with fellow students from Maria college were received in a private audience by the pope. The boy made an effort to kiss the papal ring and the pontiff asked him who he was and where that college was. Giuseppe gave his name and added that he was from Monte Cassino, whereupon the pope was said to have exclaimed: "Bravo! I shall look for you there this summer."

50 MIDWEST LAWYERS IN COURT OF BRITAIN

London—(AP)—Benches in the Lord Chief Justices court, King's bench division, bore a decidedly American aspect today as 50 members of a group of midwestern judges and lawyers now visiting in England attended a session of the court. The Americans exhibited great interest in the proceedings.

Paris—(AP)—A dog hospital with a capacity of 80 patients has been constructed at a cost of $140,000 in Alfort, a suburb. The institution has the usual operating and laboratory rooms and also a park for convalescents.

DEPARTMENT HEADS MAKING ESTIMATES FOR BUDGET BILL

Recommendations Will Be Submitted to Congress Next December

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Correspondent of Post-Crescent)

Washington—Scores of federal officials are working now upon material which will be big news to hundreds of towns and cities all over the country in December.

The estimates of the different departments, bureaus, boards, and commissions of the amounts needed to carry on their work during the next fiscal year are being prepared for submission to the director of the budget, who will go over them, pare many of them down, take them up with the President and submit his recommendations to Congress shortly after it convenes on Dec. 2.

Included in these estimates of appropriations now being prepared are the amounts to be appropriated for purchasing sites and building federal buildings in Wisconsin, the amounts needed to develop, improve, and maintain Wisconsin's rivers and harbors, and scores of other projects Uncle Sam carries on in the Badger state.

Whether or not some of the public buildings already authorized in Wisconsin will be begun within the fiscal year beginning next July 1, whether or not some already under way will be increased in scope through a board of limit of cost will depend upon the decisions made now by federal officials, now preparing their demands of Uncle Sam's treasury for the fiscal year 1931.

SILENCE IS GENERAL

Perhaps the Indian Commissioner is asking an appropriation for that Indian hospital so long sought for Wisconsin, but he won't tell. Nobody will tell what he is asking of the budget, for there are too many hands to go through before the money is actually appropriated.

First, the bureau heads concerned estimate what they need. Then the Cabinet member concerned checks to see if some of his bureaus have asked too much. Then the estimates go to the director of the budget, who knows all about saying that a bureau cannot have as much as it asks, but almost nothing about saying that the budget is the official "No man" for Uncle Sam.

This new director of the budget, Col. J. C. Hooper, is still busy on a mission to Santo Domingo, putting that country's new budget, planned by Charles G. Dawes, author of the United States budget plan, into effect. Col. Hooper went to Santo Domingo with Dawes, and remained to finish the job. Meanwhile, R. O. Kloeber, who had his training under Gen. Herbert M. Lord—called "the most hated man in the government" because of his firm refusals of funds—is acting director. Col. Hooper was assistant director of the budget under Dawes, who was the first director of Uncle Sam's housekeeping funds. Col. Hooper will arrive in September or October to take up his job.

But after Acting Director Kloeber and Col. Hooper have finished their job, with the advice and consent of the President, the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives gets on the job.

NAME COMMITTEES

It divides itself into sub-committees, holds closed hearings at which the budget director and the heads of various government bureaus tell how much they want, why they want that much, why they should or should not have more, and what they will do with all the pennies if they get them.

These sub-committees draft appropriations for the departments with which they are concerned, and the whole committee gets together and reaches an agreement on the bill. Then it goes to Congress.

Sometimes the committee gives higher appropriations than the budget director has said it should. Less frequently it allows less. Occasionally, but not often, appropriations are increased or reduced by amendments on the floor of the House.

When the House has finished with each bill, it goes to the Senate Appropriations committee, which goes through the same procedure, somewhat shortened. The Senate always makes a lot of changes. After the Senate has passed a changed bill, the bill goes to conference between the Senate and the House, the conference committee being made up of members of the Senate and the House appropriations committees.

And not until that conference committee has reported and both houses have adopted the report is the appropriations allowed any project absolutely certain. Still, there is usually disagreement between the Senate and the House on very few items, so that by the time the bill has got out of the Senate it begins to be clear how much money it is to be allotted any project.

Usually around ten appropriation bills are put through a session of Congress, all going through these numerous hands. Appropriations will be the big job of the next session.

BOARD IS EXAMINING BAR EXAMINATIONS

Madison—(AP)—The state board of bar examiners is grading papers written by the 446 applicants for admission to the Wisconsin bar who took the examination here last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Results of the examination may be announced within 30 days.

Health Officer Returns

Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer, has returned to his duties after a two week vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders spent their vacation at Berry Lake, Milwaukee, and Waterloo.

Is now a separate post office and Fred I. Kuebler has been appointed its postmaster.

Two more Wisconsin post offices will have new quarters this winter. The Kewaunee post office will be moved about Nov. 1 to 204-6 Ellis street. The postoffice department has leased these quarters from William L. Davidson and company.

University of Wisconsin students will have to go to a new place to mail their laundry home on Saturdays. The University station of the Madison post office will be moved about Dec. 1 to new quarters on the east side of Randall street between University avenue and Johnson street.

George Frost Kennan of Milwaukee has been transferred from the post of third secretary of the United States-legation at Riga, Latvia, to that of vice consul at Berlin, Germany.

Kennan was born in Milwaukee on Feb. 16, 1904 and attended private school in Cassel, Germany. He returned to the United States and completed his education at St. John's Military Academy, from which he was graduated in 1921, and Princeton University, from which he was graduated in 1925.

Taking the examinations for the foreign service shortly after his graduation, Kennan was appointed Foreign service officer, unclassified, and vice consul of career Sept. 1, 1926. His first foreign assignment, a temporary one, was to Geneva, on April 22, 1927. From there he went to Hamburg, Germany, the following July. Nine months later he was sent on a temporary assignment to Berlin where he remained only briefly before going to Tallinn on April 7, 1928. From there he went to the Riga assignment from which he goes back to Berlin on a regular job as vice consul.

DRYS FEARFUL OF "MODIFYING" LAW

states did not fulfill their promises and the state laws were ineffective, the belief prevails here that the remedy would lie in a simple reenactment by congress of the original Volstead law or its equivalent.

BEER NOT QUESTION

By no stretch of imagination do disinterested persons here believe that Mr. Wickersham meant to hint at a change in the law which would develop the possibility of permitting light wines and beer—the synonym for "modification" in the minds of most of the "wets." The interpretation put on Mr. Wickersham's act in regard to the attention of the government to the obligations of the states to aid enforcement and if he could in some ways persuade states which have no enforcement act to assume their share of the burden, it would be something which the drys thus far have not been able to accomplish, and the president would stand by such a step.

Judging by the sentiment in the wet states where enforcement acts have been devised, it is not likely that, for the present they would accept the Wickersham plan any more than the implied obligation conveyed in the term "concurrent jurisdiction." So the Wickersham letter becomes an academic argument and will not affect the attitude of the national administration either toward him or to the work he is to do on the enforcement commission.

The wets are nevertheless hopeful that the recommendations of the commission will reveal such weakness in the present system of prohibition enforcement that public opinion will permit a reexamination of the whole problem.

What the wet states want is a trade whereby local option can be set up once more, allowing dry states to stay dry. How this could be accomplished in the face of the explicit language of the eighteenth amendment is difficult to see unless the courts and congress attempted through some loophole to get around the issue—and loopholes are not usually discovered unless public opinion "wets" demand them.

The battle is still with public opinion and that's why the Wickersham letter finds both sides tense and eager to reap any advantage possible from the ambiguous phrasing of the communications and at the same time adamant about yielding one inch of their respective positions.

SALARY COMMITTEE IS WORKING ON BILL

Madison—(AP)—Assemblyman John Gamper, Medford, of the legislative committee that was detailed to look into the matter of increased salaries for legislators, has reported to the lower house that the committee may have a bill ready for presentation early this week. The committee was appointed after several proposals for legislative compensation were presented and they came in after the voters had given a small majority to a proposal for the increase.

INTEREST SHIFTS TO WHEAT MARKET AND STOCKS FALL

Despite Easier Credit Conditions Many Losses Are Marked Up

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—Chief speculative interest shifted today from the stock market, which developed increased irregularity, to the wheat market, wheat advancing 3 to 4 cents a bushel in Chicago and as much as 6 1/2 cents in Winnipeg. Credit conditions were slightly easier, call money renewing at 7 per cent for the first time in about two weeks, with a fairly plentiful supply available.

Renewed weakness of the motor stocks and heavy profit taking in the rails contrasted with the strength of the public utilities and electrical equipment issues on the New York Stock Exchange. In the general list, the main price tendency appeared to be downward, with selling influenced by the speculative belief that a technical "reaction" was in order.

Outside the sharp rise in grain prices, increasing the potential purchasing power of the agricultural regions, the day's principal business news developments consisted of another series of favorable earnings statements. Several of the conservative commission houses urged a lightening of long commitments which undoubtedly brought heavy selling into the market.

General Motors sagged to another new low level below 67 in reflection of speculative disappointment over the June sales statement. Packard, Chrysler and Murray corporations also fell back 1 to 2 1/2 points.

Coppers pointed upward at the opening but turned heavy around midday when heavy offerings of Anaconda and Kennecott carried those issues a point or more below last week's final quotations.

Youngtown Sheet & Tube was marked up 3 points to a new high at 15 3/4 but Republic dropped 2 points and Luminum 1 while U. S. Steel, Federal and Bethlehem were in rather free supply.

Morgan rumors provided the groundwork for the advance in the public utility issues, North American moving up 4 points to 166 1/2 and Detroit Edison 3 1/2 to 32 1/2, both new high records. Westinghouse Electric extended its gain to 7 1/2 points by touching a new high at 206 and General Electric sold more than 5 points higher. National Power & Light and Columbia Gas also were in brisk demand.

International Cement sank 4 1/2 points to a new low at 74 on tariff uncertainties. Simmons Co., Purdy Baking, Dupont, American Can, National Cash Register, Columbia Carbon, Continental Insurance, and Postum all sold down 2 to nearly 4 points and Chemical broke 13.
